Bryan...
 Merry Christmas! No... Happy Graduation. Yea, that's it! Government class has been a lot of fun and the day at Barcroft was a lot of laughs. I still can't drink after a day like that! Let's not get into a lot of sad stuff - let's remember each other as the wild and crazy individuals that we are. I wish you much happiness and success. Enjoy life - it gets better after

Dear Best Bryan,

Gee, but ain't it been nice saying the wrong things all year on the bus!! Passing you in the hall has been a thrill too, on the rare occasions it happens. I hope you've enjoyed having MY FATHER for homeroom. Well, have a wonderful life + a summer!

In determining what qualities put an institution of learning ahead of the pack, one must consider all elements. Far too often, the size of the school, or a single sport are designated as the focal points. At Wakefield, originally named after the birthplace of our First President, George Washington, emphasis is placed on other areas. Wakefield's ethnic and cultural richness seems to enhance the pleasant environment created for learning. Over fifty different nationalities are represented here, thus making Wakefield by far the most diversified school in Arlington and for miles around. The "melting pot" atmosphere at Wakefield prevails and the school as a whole prospers. The diversity, coupled with Wakefield's performance in other areas such as sports and academics, leads one to believe that Wakefield is definitely . . . A Cut Above!

OPENING

Czechoslovakia, Korea, Ireland, Australia, Peru, and Tanzania. What do these countries have in common? They, and many others have contributed to the cultural enrichment of the Wakefield student body. Young minds from the four corners of the Earth have come together under one roof. Pride in heritage and loyalty to their past are evident both in and out of the classroom. This pride is clearly displayed in events such as the International Talent Show, Vietnamese Club activities, and Mr. Park's Karate exhibitions. Many other highlights take place during the school year which reinforce the melting pot atmosphere at Wakefield. Staff and students hail from over fifty nations and two territories. Wakefield can boast of "Warrior Authenticity," as we have students who are descendants of American Indian tribes. These elements of pride and diversity make Wakefield High School much more than just another high school.

Morning

The break of dawn does not catch Wakefield students by surprise. The school is open by 6:30 a.m. for teacher-student help. The majority of the students arrive by 7:15 a.m., still yawning and bleary-eyed. The halls begin to stir as students congregate and discuss the day's events. In the brief space of time allotted, students scramble to complete homework. Conversation centers on the events of the past evenings and on assignments and projects due in the near future. Homeroom gives students a chance for last minute studying, sleeping, joking, and gossiping. Morning announcements briefly interrupt the chatter with news of sports highlights and upcoming events. Student announcers often break the monotony with attempts at humor and varying levels of volume in order to keep the often sluggish students on their toes. At 7:45 a.m. classes begin, and along with them, the anticipation, frustration, and enjoyment of the day.

Mr. Shutte, still in a deep sleep.

Ellis Garretson finally awakes to begin her day.

Announcements

Good morning! Today is November eleventh and these are your morning announcements. Today is the final day of registration for the SAT and Achievement tests; if you fail to register you will join a host of others on a 5-year graduation program.

Attention Science Club members. There will be a meeting in the cafeteria immediately after school to run experiments on the Wakefield Double-K Burgers to determine the amount of meat contained in one serving.

Juniors, please turn in your candy money. If you don't, you will be strapped to an electric chair garnished with garlic and forced to watch reruns of "Leave It To Beaver."

Yesterday the travelling backgammon team came within four points of their first victory in nineteen years. When the coach was asked about the teams performance, he stated, "The team really gave 110% out there and I'm proud of them."

Attention Varsity Cheerleaders! There will be a meeting at 2:15 after school on the home side of the football field to practice dodging toilet paper rolls and throwing the Warrior footballs higher than the third row of the stands.

Wakefield Band members???

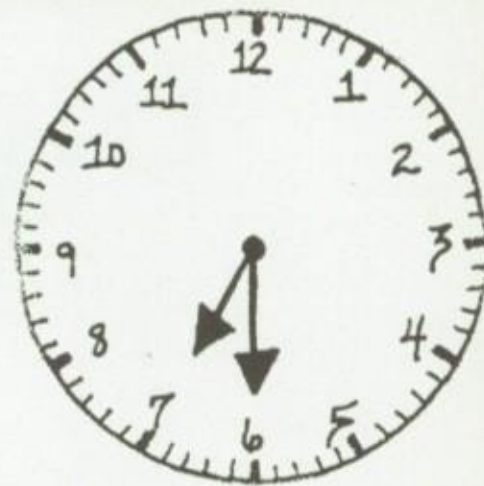

The following college representatives will be visiting Wakefield today:

The Beaver Institute of Advanced Dam Building	9:30
Virginia Academy of Underwater Basket-Weaving	10:45
Psychotic State	11:15
Turnpike Tech	12:30
Pamper Institute of Technology	1:45

Attention Mimic Club Members. There will be a talent search in the auditorium after school. We expect you to be on time.

Thank you, this concludes your morning announcements, and have a peachy day.

Hmm . . . let me think about it says, Anika Faga.

High Noon

During the week of the 14th-18th of October, Wakefield's growing sense of school spirit and patriotism is exhibited in a fun-filled Spirit Week. During these four days many students take part in "Clash Day," "Hat, Button, and Glasses Day," "Pajama Day," and "Green and White Day." Spirit Week gives all students a chance to express their anticipation towards homecoming. The week reflects the individuality of the student body. Through the crazy costumes the students show their sense of fun and creativity. The momentum and unity increases through the week and sets the scene for the upcoming festivities. The following quotes are statements to the success of Spirit Week.

SUNNY SCHLICHTER: (Senior)
"Spirit Week was great.
What's a school without spirit? Everyone who participated did a great job."

TERRY BRENNAN: (Senior) "I was very surprised at the number of people who participated, more so than I imagined. It was nice to know that so many people have school spirit this year."

VICTOR ROBINSON: (Junior)
"We should have it more than once a year."

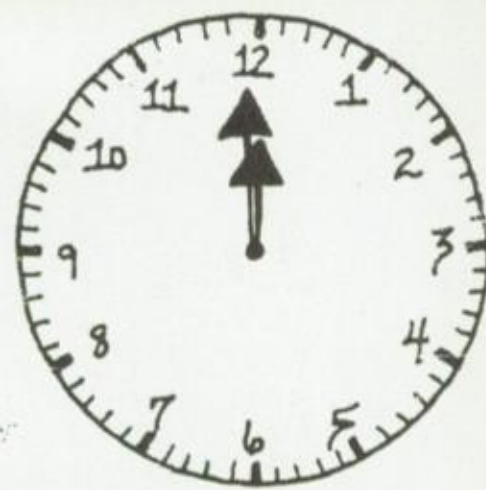

LARRY FULTON: (Senior)
"Spirit Week gave us a chance for a break from the hum-drum routine of High School."

MICHELLE MORNEO: (Sophomore) "I think Spirit Week was a big success! I think the school spirit is greater than it has ever been in the past."

2:00 P.M.

For many students the 2:00 o'clock bell is an instant signal that means that school is over and they are released. To another group of students it merely serves as a signal to start the second part of their school day. Some of these dedicated people go to their 7th period classes, an option new for this school year. Others head for their clubs, student government meetings or their athletic practices. Finally, some that remain are not formally involved in an organized activity but stay after to get extra assistance and guidance from the teachers, to talk with counselors or principals, or work in the computer room on programs or papers. Over all, the 2:00 o'clock bell is just a pivoting point for the students of Wakefield at which they change gears and head into the second half of the school day at Wakefield High School.

Can't stop studying even when they lock the doors.

Idi Bryan,
Well, we survived the year without killing him. - Goldstein

I don't want this to be a typical yearbook B.S., so I'd like to make this worthwhile. I know you're really smart, it's just that Mr. Goldstein tends to dupe the intellect in some or all of us. Next year I'm sure you'll do great! Your party sounds great. I may have to show up late, but I'd really like to go, by the way, since the year is ending. I have a "crush" on you. That's between us! Hee, hee. It's nice to bring these things up at the end.

Working Warriors

As late afternoon to evening sets in, a new work day is just starting for some. A number of Wakefield students have taken on the responsibility and joined the working world. They work in a variety of places, including fast food restaurants, hardware stores, and clothing stores to name a few.

Wakefield students are talented in a variety of areas and are not afraid to venture into new experiences. They work for a variety of reasons, whether it be for money, the experience, or just for the satisfaction. The mixture of talent and skill makes Wakefield a strong foundation of creativity and success. The need to succeed is a basis for the strength of the Wakefield student body.

The students of Wakefield High School take pride in being different and in portraying their special images. From athletics to clubs, or from studying intently to roaming the halls in pajamas for "Spirit Week," School activities reveal a rare blend of moods, of lifestyles, of opinions, and of people. Therefore, a Wakefield High School education is a unique cultural experience of growing and broadening of one's horizons. Wakefield, the largest high school in Arlington County, feels the pressures of excelling, and upholding the standards established throughout the years by past generations. These standards, for the most part, are upheld at Wakefield because the students have acknowledged that school is not all work and not all play, yet it is a happy median. Here at Wakefield that combination is found providing students with a relaxed atmosphere along with a prime institution of learning. The growth that goes on during a student's four years at Wakefield gives him or her a sound conception of what life is all about. The honor of Washington's birthplace is upheld as Wakefield rises to a level all its own.

Class Rings are introduced to the junior class at the beginning of the junior year. There is a wide selection of styles available. They may range from simple classic styles to more detailed and intricate designs. The designs students choose can help make their year more personal and unique.

When class rings are received, there is a symbolic ritual that always follows. The class ring must be turned the exact number of times of the graduating year. The ring must also be turned in the direction of the pinky. In addition to that, one must kiss the last person to turn his or her ring. Let's hope it's someone we had in mind.

As time goes by and we grow older, we look back on our high school years. Whether our thoughts be filled with fondness or great indignation, we will never forget our years at Wakefield High School. How can we forget the institution that brought us closer to ourselves and to one another? The ring will serve as an ever-present reminder.

"Varoom!"

The sound of a car to the ear of a Junior is like the cry of a newborn child to its mother. Most Juniors either have a driver's license or are in the process of obtaining it through the intermediate step of a learner's permit. The entire ordeal begins at the age of fifteen years. At that time, Wakefield students are driven to DMV, The Division of Motor Vehicles on Seminary Road. They stand for an average of thirty minutes in the general information line, while sweat drips off their foreheads (whether it's January or June), to receive a Virginia Driver's Manual. They are then told to go home and study the manual and return to take a brief test to be granted a learner's permit. The learner's permit entitles the fifteen year old to drive with the accompaniment of an adult of eighteen years or older. After practicing at every possible opportunity until their parents have hoarse voices from yelling "Watch out for the parked cars," and after completing the required number of hours both in the classroom and on the road, the young, soon-to-be driver returns happily to DMV. After another thirty minute wait in the information line and a twenty minute test taking period, the moment of truth remains. This is the time when all of the butterflies begin to stir, and the palms get wet. The teenager is now assigned to a teststructor, that is, the person who has power to give or not give a license. he skids out onto the road, a general feeling of relief hits this junior as he finds himself cruising around the block in perfect style. Three hours later when or her name is called to receive driver's license, the Junior has just embarked on the highway of adulthood and rushes home to phone friends and brag of the accomplishments.

Almost Seniors

The junior year in high school is often considered the hardest one academically for students. Competition truly begins to mount during the Junior year as students begin to think ahead towards college and the future. In the classrooms, this brings about extreme intensity thereby testing the students ability to work under pressure. It is a year of change as many Juniors take on after school jobs, and part-time work to pocket a small sum of money so as to fulfill their social obligations. They begin to taste what the real world is like, and at times wonder if they will make it. In the fall, most Juniors take the P.S.A.T.'s, and then in the spring take the S.A.T.'s for the first time, Counselors raise that dreaded question, "What do you plan to do after high school?" Which is typically answered with labergasted horror. Although Juniors may not know the answers to these questions, they do know they are now upperclassmen and often let others know it too. Yet they are kept subdued by the fact that they still have a class ahead of them. But, watch out because the engines have just started revvin' for the Class of 87!

The Sophomore class officers started off the year with great organization, in particular fundraisers. The class set out with a goal of raising money for their prom in 1988. They held candy sales and combined their efforts with the Senior class to sponsor a Christmas dance which had an encouraging turnout. The class is sponsored by Spanish teacher, Ms. Combos. We all commend Ms. Combos for her accomplishments because this is only her second year teaching at Wakefield and her first chance to sponsor a class. The Sophomores are working together as a class, and that is an important step in being a successful and productive group.

Larie Rowley expresses her dramatic talent in the "Wiz" rehearsals.

Sophomores on Wheels

Grounded in the ways of life at Wakefield, the Sophomore class returns for another year of fun and frolic. Some of these Sophomores will return to Wakefield in a different fashion — by car. The students being of age venture after one of life's biggest endeavors; the infamous driver's license. The excitement of getting behind the wheel of a car and feeling the power that you are in total control sends the adrenaline flowing throughout the young driver's body. Receiving your driver's license is the first step in a long line of duties that prove you are able to accept responsibilities. The Sophomores will soon have the thrill of being seen in their new Porsche or the embarrassment of being spotted in their 1969 family station wagon.

They watch the camera like they watch the road.

Sophomores Do It in Style

"The year that is most transitional in the high school student's life is the Sophomore year. As Freshmen, students are not sure how to respond towards the new atmosphere. Returning for their second year, the Sophomores become apt to express their spirit and individuality. They associate themselves with fashion trends, music, fads, and spirit. Whether it is going out on the weekend listening to Prince, Phil Collins, Lionel Richie, or Doug E. Fresh with the volume rattling the windows of their car, or being seen at the school in their Benetton sweat-shirt, swatch watch, Kangol hat, and Reebok tennis shoes. When it comes to displaying spirit and enthusiasm for their school at sporting events, pep rallies, fundraisers, and other school activities not one class can boast more than the Sophomores. The Sophomore class has not reached its potential yet but if they realize what a great thing they have going now, they will certainly be one of the best classes at Wakefield in recent years." — Joe Sophomore

Sophomores of Wakefield stand tall
 Dedicated to excellence from the beginning of fall,
 Contributing to the atmosphere of high school
 They possess the power of silent rule;
 For if they were absent in body and mind
 The Wakefield student body would be in a bind.
 So the next time, to a Sophomore you are cruel,
 Remember, without them your school would not be a school.

FACULTY

One of the most important challenges facing any high school is that of preparing its young men and women to proceed through life with success. Wakefield High School has not only addressed your academic and co-curricular needs, but it has also guided your social and emotional growth through the difficult years. We are confident that through these years, we have helped to build men and women who are strong in character and superior in academics who will go on to tackle many endeavors. Whatever strength and compassion we have to offer, we send with you as you leave Wakefield High School. You will need all the preparation you have had, and you will continue to build on this foundation as you soar to new heights. We are confident that as you leave Wakefield High School and embark upon your journey through life, you will remember fondly your years at Wakefield, for we sent forth a generation that was indeed a "cut above."

Dennis W. Hill

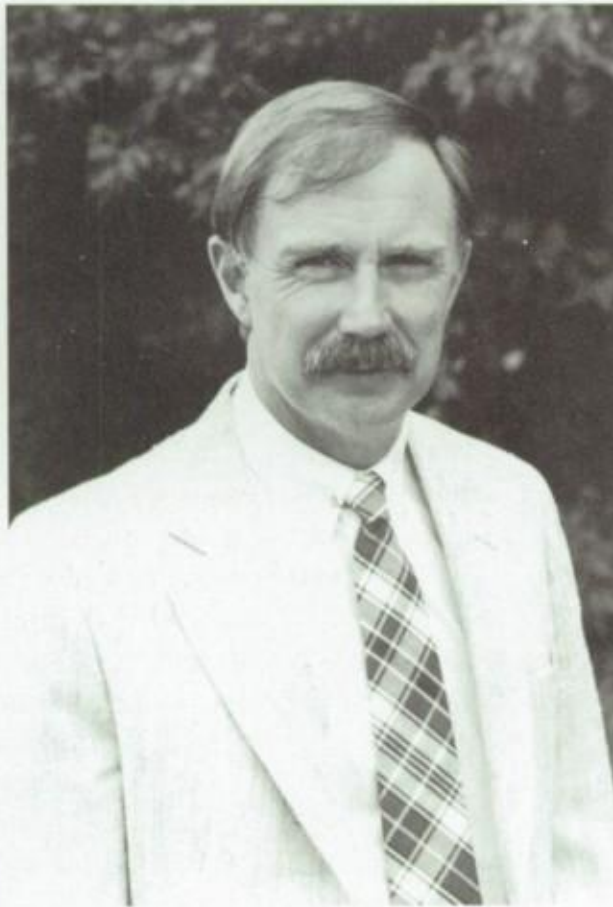

All the Principal's Men

The four pillars of our school, Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Jeffery, Mr. Hill, Mr. Long, stand tall and proud patriotically next to the American flag.

Strongminded Mr. Armstrong.

Mr. Long looking sharp.

Our Leaders . . .

Wakefield High School is honored by the presence of three outstanding Assistant Principals on its staff. They are Assistant Principals rather than Vice Principals because their duties are directed toward assisting Mr. Hill in running the school and in being active parts in the administrative process rather than simple backup men and disciplinarians alone.

This year, for the first time, the main office has been split into three parts and scattered throughout the main part of the school. The reason for the split is to bring the counselors and Assistant Principals to the students and make them more accessible to talk to when those rare problems occur. By scattering these men throughout the school, they have become more persons than figureheads to the students and more responsive to the ever changing needs.

Just a few of the jobs they do include the discipline of the school whether it is in the classroom, halls, or cafeteria. In addition to that, the supervision of the students assigned to their units and the regular and the regular administrative duties they must perform each day. It is a great deal for anyone to do, but these men always do their jobs and much more with dedication and skill and always seem ready to do more.

The Guidance department at Wakefield is gifted with an abundance of hard working and dedicated counselors. Each individual counselor is responsible for a number of homerooms, following each incoming freshman class through to graduation. Hence, each student at Wakefield is associated with one particular counselor through the four years, thus ensuring a continuity of concerned guidance.

This year, the Guidance offices were divided among three unit offices which were placed throughout the building in an effort to make the services more easily accessible to students and faculty. A constant stream of students flow in and out their doors with questions and concerns ranging from the personal to practical. Between re-scheduling courses, organizing "rap" groups, and acting as intermediaries between students and faculty or students and home, the counselors keep a constant eye on both the academic and psychological well-being of the Wakefield community.

Smile, Mrs. Taylor, smile!

Relax, Mrs. Tucker.

Having a good time, Miss Glasgall?

Mrs. Judy Jankowski.

English

Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Washington, Mrs. Hart, Ms. Preston, Mr. Macekura, Ms. Klevins, Mr. Goldstein, Mrs. Martin, Miss Boehmer, Ms. Wine, Miss F. Lee.

Wakefield High School is privileged to have one of the finest English Department faculties in the metro area. The teachers, although they have very diverse teaching methods, blend together to complement each other. These teachers come from a variety of backgrounds and include an Ivy League graduate as well as an escapee from New Jersey.

Teaching styles vary from teacher to teacher. Ms. Preston douses her students with symbolism, Mrs. Washington shoots essay questions out to her students frequently, while Mr. Macekura blends his teaching with a sharp sense of humor. Mr. Tarravechia has become known as "The King Of the Tests," and Mr. Goldstein provides his students with a relaxed learning atmosphere. Joining this department this year are Darla Hart and Francesca Lee, both of whom bring varied perspectives to the department.

Our English teachers do not limit their contributions to the classes alone. Mrs. Martin heads the English department, Mr. Hufschmitt is the head football coach, Ms. Preston is the sponsor of The Pendulum, while Miss Lee sponsors our yearbook. Mr. Macekura, not to be outdone, sponsors Student Government and the National Honor Society. Ms. Klevins, an often overlooked English teacher owing to her location, also teaches drama classes, sponsors the Thespians, and was the sponsor of the school's production of The Wiz. Overall, this is an outstanding group of dedicated people.

Each member of the department has his or her own life after school. Ms. Preston is having a baby, Miss Lee does Irish dancing, while many like Mr. Macekura and Mrs. Bartlett go home to their families, with whom they spend a lot of time — between grading essays.

In what other class could you aspire to write a computer program to do your homework, speak in new languages, learn a new way to draw pictures and join the forefront of today's technology? Only in Wakefield's Math and Computer classes can you do this. Our math teachers also double as computer teachers. They teach, to the Wakefield students, the computer languages of Pascal and Basic. These teachers that teach two separate subjects are only a small portion of our total math department. This department is in possession of many of the best math instructors in the area. These teachers, under their head, Marie Hill, teach our students about all types of math ranging from geometry to A.P. Calculus. Now quick, what is the cube root of 3,851,670? Secretaries

Wakefield secretaries in full bloom. Row 1: Mrs. Sermanchick, Mrs. Grove. Row 2: Ms. Masters, Mrs. D. Lee, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Garza, Ms. Barr, Mrs. Redmond, Mrs. Clark.

There is an essential group of dedicated people on Wakefield's staff that work diligently behind the scenes in a very vital support role. Faculty, administrators, students and counselors depend daily on the dedicated work of the Secretaries, Treasurer, and Registrar. The volume of work done and the information processed by these people is awe-inspiring. The degree of responsibility for the smooth operation of Wakefield can reach monumental heights at times. Swamped continuously with telephone calls from concerned parents, the secretaries aid our principal and administrative staff in emergency situations that arise during the school year. The registrar has to keep track of all student records and, prepares transcripts for college-bound Seniors. The treasurer keeps track of all the funds of the school and each of the clubs at Wakefield. All of these people are extremely essential to Wakefield. So be thankful to the people who work quietly and efficiently behind the scenes to form the heart-beat of Wakefield.

LIBRARIANS WHS

The staff: Ms. Jackson, Mrs. Webster, Ms. McOsker, Mrs. Williams.

"No, I did not go to graduate school to learn to work the Xerox machine," to quote the clipped cartoon posted over the machine. The cry of the overworked librarian . . .

Wakefield is blessed with a skilled and dedicated staff of competent and caring librarians. Just keeping up with the varied needs of a large student body is challenging enough. Add to this tracking down overdue books and wayward students, shutting off the alarm, allocating A.V. equipment to anxious teachers and updating and cataloguing the collection of books and magazines, and you have the recipe for a nervous breakdown for those less able. But our stalwart library staff is tried and true and ready to serve!

BUSINESS

Carol Frenney, Mildred Grant, Hellon Wykle, Joann Levine, Mildred Witten, Myra Johnson.

The Business Department at Wakefield helps prepare students for the increasingly complex and competitive world of high technology business. Word processing, accounting, office technology, business and personal typing, shorthand and notehand are all thoroughly covered in an effort to professionalize students prior to graduation. Without these skills, a person can easily be overlooked for a career in the fast paced business world. Computers are the gateway to today's professional society, and several of the business courses expose the students to computer operations. The faculty brings future job opportunities and career expansion to the attention of the students. Therefore, the department serves as a bridge between the world of academia and the 'real world' which seems to many so distant, alluring, and inaccessible. Their goal is to bring that world within the walls of Wakefield High School.

Mrs. Raabe and Mrs. Kensek are two dedicated people who really seem to enjoy the company of their students.

What do you think of when people say Home Economics? Most people envision girls slaving over a hot stove. Wake up! Today there are just as many guys taking Home Economics as girls. The course is not strictly about cooking; it involves cleaning, sewing and various other home survival skills. Home Economics also branches out into different courses at Wakefield. These include childcare, Foods and Teen and Independent Living. These are also preparation courses that give the students hands-on experience and motivates them to make difficult decision. In Foods you receive experience in the kitchen preparing everything from ice cream beverages to chicken dinners. Teen Living and Independent Living helps the students face career decision about their futures such as: balancing a budget, career decisions and planning a family. There are several speakers that come in during the year to address the students about their futures. Also the students can make their own skirts, blouses, pants and shirts in the Home Economics Lab. These courses offer valuable experience and are fun at the same time.

Mrs. Raabe poses for the camera

MARKETING EDUCATION

Mr. Miller and Ms. Pressur, filling the bill.

Marketing Education, previously called Distributive Education, is an interesting and unique department. Three marketing classes and one in fashion merchandising are offered to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. The classes provide work/study benefits for students not readily available in a typical high school setting. The work experience gained can help bridge an otherwise difficult gap between high school and the working world.

"Fundamentals" is a first year class offered to new students and is worth one credit. Additional credits may be earned through working outside of class. "Marketing" a second year and somewhat more advanced course, is for students who will be working outside the school simultaneously. The students must work the required number of hours to earn full credit in this course.

A relatively new area of study being offered at Wakefield is Fashion Merchandising. This new course offers study in a variety of different areas in the fashion world. Its students are ever visible gracing the halls of Wakefield in their elegant attire.

Ms. McDowell, keep smiling.

Mr. Miller in deep thought.

Look on, Mr. Miller.

Ms. McDowell, busy at work.

SPECIAL ED.

The Special Education Program provides educational services for students who have been identified by a multidisciplinary team as needing a specialized educational environment in which to reach their potential in learning. The Department exists solely to provide for the specific needs of the specific student. The individual is the determining factor in designing the educational program. Psychological and sociological buzz-words aside, the instruction comes from the heart. And the success of Wakefield's Special Education Department is apparent in the graduation of its students and success of its graduates in the outside world.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Our worldly ladies of the language department: Ms. Katoen, Madame Clarke, Ms. Berdahl, Ms. Davis.

The Foreign Language Department at Wakefield High School is dedicated to further enhancing the cultural knowledge of the students. There is a great deal that we would all like to learn about foreign countries and each teacher in this department helps us to become more aware of cultures different from ours. The students learn something new every day. This can range from historical background to vocabulary and proper terminology. To further enhance our cultural awareness, the teachers prepare extracurricular activities consisting of guest speakers, field trips, food sampling, and fundraisers just to name a few. Some of the teachers are also club sponsors. Mrs. Davis sponsors the Latin Club, Mrs. Katoen sponsors the Spanish Honor Society, Mrs. Berdahl sponsors the French Honor Society and the French Club, while Ms. Combos sponsors the Spanish and German Clubs. These give the students the opportunity to become further involved with the particular language they are learning.

HILT

Sally Wall, Boramy Nhim, Shirley Morrow, Jane Carter, Cecilia Firling, David Wittenberg, Michelle Grabouski, Mr. William Wright, Vicki Ryan-Barr, Mr. Khiet Dang, Kate Pauls.

The Hilt Department at Wakefield High School is one of the best in Virginia. The staff of dedicated teachers totals eleven, and around one hundred students are presently involved in the program. The main objective of the Hilt Department is to provide foreign students with an intensified English program to secure those students in non-Hilt classes. The program is divided into Hilt and Hilt-X. Students must pass a test to advance into the Hilt-X program where they take less amount of hours than in Hilt and then they must pass a second test to be placed out of Hilt-X. The program has been able to aid many students whose primary language is not English. The teachers involved in this Department work long and hard to develop new lesson plans and create better ideas for the optimum ways to teach and communicate with Hilt students. Many Hilt teachers at Wakefield have set the precedent for other schools in Northern Virginia who would also like to start similar programs at their schools.

Mr. Dang is everyone's favorite teacher.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

front row: Mr. Robert Veldran, Mrs. Gail Kalepp, Mr. William Lee, Miss Rae Smith. back row: Mr. Nathaniel Avery, Mrs. Gail Kalepp, Ms. Lori Grimm, Mr. Roger Perna.

The Physical Education Department at Wakefield boasts some of the best staff and facilities in the Washington D.C. area. Students must obtain two "P.E." credits prior to graduation, and generally tend to take those courses during their Freshman and Sophomore years. Consequently, the P.E. Department has become a rite of passage for many.

Participation and effort are rewarded rather than skill and ability, and all students are encouraged to get exercise, which is necessary for healthy development. Swimming, volleyball, track, basketball, tennis, racquetball, and aerobics are all covered with one end in mind — total fitness.

In conjunction with this, a health course is taught on a rotating schedule. Hygiene, the workings of the body and health related careers are discussed in the classroom setting.

The faculty, in their colorful warm-ups, are an inspiration to those of us more sedentary creatures. Go. Team. Go.

Lock it up, Miss Smith!

Mr. Avery.

When Mr. Lee talks, people listen.

Miss Kibbler at a happier moment.

MUSIC

Mrs. Lewis, Ms. Sandberg, Mr. Pickeral make up our Music Department.

The Music Department at Wakefield offers students a wide variety of music courses. Among these are Jazz band, Orchestra, Chorus, and Madrigals. The teaching staff consists of Mrs. Lewis, Mr. Pickeral, and Ms. Sandberg. Around one hundred students participate in music classes every week. The various musical groups put on concerts for the school at interval times during the year. The teachers are often required to be at functions such as awards banquets and graduation to perform. The musical program ranks the best in Arlington.

You see, I told you it was a D minor scale.

Smile! Mr. Pickeral.

Mr. Pickeral always dresses nicely for school.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS/ART DEPARTMENT

Ms. Bragan, Mr. Cogswell, Mr. Garber, Mr. Hicks work together to make a fantastic department.

Mr. Cogswell and Mr. Hicks making a deal.

The Industrial Arts Department and the Art Department contribute a great deal to the elective courses offered within the school. Each of these courses has something special to offer. The teachers of these two departments are dedicated to teaching each of us new skills. Our latent talents are brought out by our drive to impress our instructors. We learn more about our capabilities when there is a caring teacher who wants us to do the best that we can do. A number of us take a course in either of these two categories to further pursue a talent in a special area or to prepare for a future career in the arts or engineering fields. Our instructors see this and help us along the way, providing support and guidance whenever needed. Their knowledge is our guide through the times when we think we are failures. This encourages us to try again and stretch our limits.

The instructors in the Industrial Arts Department are William Cogswell, Jim Garber, and Leroy Murphy. The instructor for the Art Department is Willie Bragan. In these departments we work with a variety of different materials. We may work for example with clay, wood, metal, electronical devices and a number of other things. Their safe use and proper function is explained. The knowledge that we gain is stored within us for future reference in our lifetimes.

Ms. Bragan is fixing the enlarger.

"Past is Prologue"

The Social Studies Department at Wakefield takes on the responsibility of educating students about both the past and present in preparation for the future. All Wakefield students are required to take an American History, an American Government and a Geography course before graduation. Consequently, teachers at some time in the four years teach all students. In helping students understand the continuity of world culture, the interdependence of world events, Social Studies impresses upon them their responsibilities as citizens of this planet. In addition to the required classes, there are elective and accelerated courses offered at Wakefield. These classes include Sociology, Psychology and World History. All are designed to broaden the student's knowledge and appreciation of an ever complex society.

Some of the most enjoyable classes for the students at Wakefield are their science classes. The courses are unique in that you receive hands-on experience with such things as frogs, unknown substances, earthworms and weights and pulleys. The student body is privileged to have a fine set of individuals who are well-informed and versatile at their positions. The staff is more than willing to sacrifice personal time to give students helpful advice in conducting their Science Fair experiments or simply remaining after to give a student a little extra tutoring. Biology students are introduced to dissections of frogs and earthworms, discovering their bloodtypes, viewing chloroplasts in a microscope and learning about the structure of a DNA molecule. Chemistry students become friends with the Periodic Table, calculate molecular weights, and master the system of moles. Physics students deal with matter, inertia, vectors and other exciting topics. Though the highlight of the year is the Physics Caroling during the annual Newton Fest. Conducted by Mr. Revere, students sing such classics as "Frosty the Photon" and "Oh, Apple Tree"; a true Wakefield tradition. The Science Department, though separated into different courses, functions as a well oiled machine.

They rush the doors, they crowd the floors, they form into long, long lines. And they wait.

Hunger is the great motivator and the cafeteria staff fills the need. Led by Maxine Dunn, the eight woman team of Rita Warrington, Louise Davis, Bea Paige, Eleanor Collier, Doris Gaddy, Virginia Sahnaw, Michelle Pearson, and Pat Casey, mounts the offensive daily from 10:30-12:15, in their newly remodeled kitchen, on the collective stomach growls of the students and staff. And what other Wakefield staff can boast the honor of interacting with almost the entire student body every day? It boggles the mind.

Thanks to the dedication and hard work of these women, hundreds of Wakefield students go to their fourth and fifth period classes happy and content.

The Wakefield chapter of the Thespians was formed only a year ago, so is in the process of instigating traditions rather than following them. Admittedly, many of these are a tad bit off-the-wall, but creativity is the rule.

Affiliated with the International Thespian Society, the organization recognizes the talents of high school students who are involved in the dramatic arts. The main event of the year was the students' participation in the Shakespearean Festival, a three day competition at the Folger Theater between area high schools. For the second year, the Thespian troupe represented Wakefield.

Throughout the year, the Thespians sponsor various activities. In February, the group performed dramatic readings at Gift of the Art, an Arlington Arts Festival. They publicized auditions for the Wakefield production of The Wiz and led a campaign encouraging new talent. The year ends with a bang with the Snack With the Stars, the Wakefield banquet for students in the drama department.

Fun and creative fundraising was the goal when, in December, the Charles E. Smith Company hired the troupe to spread their Christmas Cheer throughout Skyline Mall. The students dressed up as elves, snowmen, Santa, Rudolf, and Frosty and read Christmas stories, sang carols and directed kids to the resident Santa.

FORENSICS

"Hey! Isn't forensics like on Quincy? You mean there's a club where they cut up dead people?"

No, not quite. Literally, forensic means "pertaining to public disputation; argumentative; rhetorical." For the more than 20 members of the Wakefield Forensics Team, it means competition in delivering speeches; reciting poetry and prose; dramatically reading plays alone or with a partner; and many other oratorical events. All events involve speaking or reading in front of judges and other participants, a skill vital to almost any profession, and are so varied that anyone can find an event in which to excel. For the creative, there is the Original Works category, in which the author must present her or his selection to the judges. For the resourceful, there are events for which a speech must be organized and delivered within a time limit. There are also categories that require both skills.

Forensics at Wakefield has thrived over the past several years, with more and more people discovering the opportunities and rewards involved. We have sent competitors to regional and state levels, and we always do very well in the championship competitions. Forensics is one activity at which Wakefield excels. If you're looking for something to do with your spare time, join a winning team. Join forensics! Track team members win by running the race. Football players win by running the ball. Forensic team members by running their mouths.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

The International Club at Wakefield is comprised of a wide range of students from many different cultural backgrounds. The club contains students from ten different countries who are more than eager to share their diverse heritage with others. They participate during the course of the year in such activities as the Talent Show and an International Dinner and the International Sports Tournament. The sports tournament is comprised of two events: soccer and volleyball with big name coaches such as Ms. Dilworth, Mr. Park, Mr. Macekura, among others. Mrs. Firling deserves a great deal of credit for not only sponsoring the club but also for hosting the activities and seeing they run smoothly and efficiently.

"The International Club gives the HILT kids a chance to participate in the Wakefield arena and gives them a sense of belonging. They can be with students who speak their own language, as well as students from other cultures which necessitates their using English to communicate. It serves a great need."

CHINESE CLUB

The Chinese Club was established in November 1984 with the goals of providing the chance for Chinese students to form friendships and a unity, celebrate their traditional holidays and participate in various activities to improve their knowledge of Chinese culture. Now in its second year, the Club boasts over twenty members. It hosts a Chinese history class which meets regularly, and publishes a yearly directory including all the club's activities and information concerning its members. Successful fundraising activities provide the opportunity for an enjoyable party at the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Morrow, during the Christmas Vacation, a picnic during Spring Vacation, and an end of the year party. The year's end activity is an exciting trip to Kings Dominion.

Cambodian Club

The two purposes of the Cambodian Club are to provide friendship for Cambodian students and to keep them in touch with their culture. As new residents and future citizens, the members want to get to know Americans and to learn American customs. At the same time, they are proud of their Cambodian heritage and want to hold on to it. So, the Club members celebrate their holidays together and recall their traditions. They try to help each other, in school and out. Finally, the members want to take part in other school activities and to help build school spirit at Wakefield.

"Having a Cambodian Club is important to Wakefield's mix of cultures. It's great that people can join this club and learn more about Cambodian customs and lifestyles. Being in a club is more fun than reading a book about it."

GERMAN CLUB

The German Progressive Club is a group of German speaking students sponsored by Miss Maria Combos and dedicated to the preservation of the German Culture in America. It is among the smaller and more intimate clubs at Wakefield, having just over a dozen members.

The Oktoberfest, sponsored by Yorktown, is the first annual event the club has been involved with. Wakefield students journey forth to enjoy the German food and music and to participate in a truly cultural event. A fundraiser in February provides the necessary funds for a club outing to a fancy German restaurant at the end of the school year.

Both the Spanish Club and Spanish Honor Society were formed for the sole purpose to further enrich the knowledge of the Spanish language and increase understanding of the Hispanic culture. Ms. Combos is the sponsor of the Spanish club. The club is made up of approximately forty students who are either presently taking a Spanish class, or are native speakers. Mrs. Katoen sponsors the Spanish Honor Society. This club is for Spanish II and III students who have a grade of "A" or "B" in Spanish and have some interest in Spanish culture.

Both these clubs participate in a variety of activities. During the Christmas holiday the clubs threw Christmas parties (fiesta de navidad) before Christmas vacation. Guest speakers were invited to talk about the Latin American and Spanish culture. Arranging field trips and preparing Hispanic cuisine are only a few more of the activities that take place within the club. During the year the clubs sponsor various events and activities to raise money.

Without the Spanish Club and the Spanish Honor Society a great deal of cultural knowledge would be unknown to Wakefield students. These clubs strengthen our awareness of our Latin neighbors.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

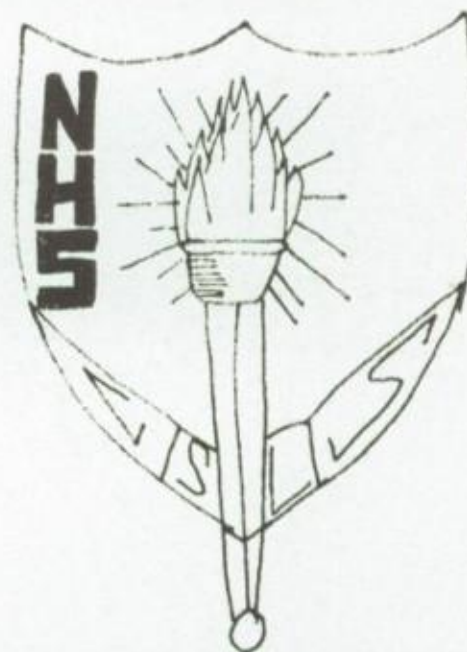

National Honor Society admission is limited to Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors who have at least a 4.5 grade point average. Personal qualities such as leadership, character, and dedication to self and others are also taken into consideration in the application process. New members are inducted into the club in a formal annual ceremony attended by proud family and friends.

Then what? The Society's activities this year included such community activities as the Thanksgiving canned food drive and the Christmas Toys-For-Tots drive, both of which were donated to Arlington's poor and needy. The annual Homecoming Balloon Sale and Valentine Dance are fundraisers which contribute to the N.H.S.

scholarships available for Senior members who are college-bound. Having trouble with a certain subject? The National Honor Society also provides tutoring services throughout the school year.

The members, honored by their inclusion in the Society, exhibit a sense of responsibility in helping others.

Student Government

The Wakefield Student Government Association (SGA), exists, solely as a representative body for the unity and welfare of the school as a whole. Membership is drawn from a pool of four elected representatives and the vice president from each class. Together, these twenty students deal with the issues and rules pertinent to the school community.

The SGA meets weekly to set, review, and initiate changes in Wakefield's policies, regulations and governing procedures. The representatives work closely with the students, faculty and administration. The SGA is a strong foundation within the school. They help run the student elections, organize and direct the Homecoming Half-Time ceremony, and sponsor the Bi-annual Red Cross Bloodmobile. These many events help strengthen their leadership and appeal within the school.

The experience and the practice in mediating problems within the community will stand these individuals in a good stead in the years to come.

The Lincoln-Douglas Debate, is basically an oratory on a topic in which opposing debaters compete in a battle of skill and strategy with words. The objective of the debater is to offer his/her view point on the issue clearly and concisely. It is essentially an organized argument. The speaker is penalized for high speed talking, and offering quotes, and evidences. The speaker must impress the judge with both his/her speaking skills and logical analysis of the issue at hand. The speech presents no plan to remedy a significant problem, but rather appeals to the audience and judge to adopt a set of ideas espoused.

the most fascinating areas of forensics competition. At Student Congress, the debates amend, table, pass bills and resolutions in the nature a congressman would. The purpose of this parliamentary debate is to reach consensus, advance debate, and work towards compromising solutions.

The Distributive Education Club of America, "DECA," is unusual in that it is one of the few class related clubs at Wakefield. Only students taking the Fashion Merchandising and Marketing Education classes are eligible for membership. This class-club relationship gives students opportunities both in and out of the classroom to use their management skills. This vitality makes DECA classroom participation more appealing.

During the year a great number of activities take place — the annual trip to New York and the exciting fashion show are just a few of the highlights. Students also participate in numerous class projects and community affairs. All in all, students learn skills that provide them with an early insight into what is ahead. Look out world!!

KEY CLUB

Key Club is a service organization for high school students unique for its aim in the development of the initiative, leadership ability, and good citizenship, practices. It operates under the school regulations and draws its memberships from the student body. The Key Club is sponsored around the world by Kiwanis International, a community service organization for business and professional men. Club members work together to fulfill the needs of their schools and communities through volunteer service. They know that the services they perform will have a lasting effect on those they help, their world and themselves. Key Club is the largest service organization of its kind in the world.

The Key Club here at Wakefield has remained quite busy throughout the year and has made many plans for future service projects. In the fall, they sponsored Key Club Parents' Night and held a clean-up drive to beautify our school. They organized a marathon dance to help raise money for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, and have had several money-making projects to raise enough money for a school sign to be built, perhaps next year. The Key Club will continue to raise money throughout the summer and next year until the goal is reached. The South Arlington Chapter Kiwanis Club, sponsor of the group, has offered its support in this endeavor. Also they plan to hold a membership drive next fall, and hope that many more will take an interest in the club and the work it does.

F.B.L.A.

The FBLA Club is a co-curricular activity, with 94 members this year.

The club held two fundraisers. This money was used to provide a scholarship to an outstanding FBLA student; sponsor a student-employer luncheon; make a donation to Children's Hospital; and to make a donation to Project Ask which helps carry on research in children's cancer.

FBLA was privileged to have guest speakers from The Katherine Gibbs Business School, The Washington School for Secretaries, and the Northern Virginia Business School.

Each speaker provided useful information both for those entering the business world and those going to college.

Club members participated in two regional workshops. These workshops were held at the Northern Virginia Community College and featured speakers from the local business community. Members also participated in contests in the areas of business law, economics, word processing, and "Mr. and Ms. FBLA." Our club made a good showing against other schools in the Northern Virginia Region.

During the month of December, FBLA sponsored an open house in the Business Department. Members and guests attended along with returning alumnae.

The end of the year Pizza Party has become a tradition with FBLA members. At this event, graduating seniors and the club officers were recognized. Each received an official FBLA pin. Other members who distinguished themselves during the year also were recognized. Watch out for these folks in the years ahead; they're going places.

Korean Club

The Korean Club is sponsored by Mr. Park and meets year 'round. During the year the club has sound basic principles which they promote: scholarship, leadership and fellowship. Mr. Park stresses to his club members that academic excellence is self-rewarding. He wants his club members to be leaders rather than followers and to strive to obtain higher goals. Fellowship is the key ingredient to the club's success. The students have to learn to get along with each other as well as adapting to the different cultures of the students at Wakefield. The members dedicate themselves to providing services to the school and surrounding community. The club also participates in the Chinese New Year celebration in February and takes part in fundraisers and conducts seminars, club picnics, and parties. Any Korean student may become a member simply by attending the club meetings and paying club dues.

"The Korean Club gives opportunity for those who barely speak Korean and know little about their own country to explore more and to get to know their people. But it also gives a chance to the newly immigrated Korean to learn American culture through the club. We get to know each other by talking and getting involved with the club's activities."

"I, myself, learned to be me again by joining the club. It gave me the opportunity to learn more about my own country and its people which I had forgotten."

The French Honor Society sponsors various activities during the year to support the study of French. Our fundraisers include the Back to School Dance, bake sales and candy sales. With the money earned through these activities, the F.H.S. has given small scholarships to students planning to visit France through exchange programs involving homestays. It has also funded the production of a slide-tape presentation to explain Wakefield's Homecoming activities to students in France. Students in France will send the F.H.S. a project to explain about their school. At the end of the year, F.H.S. members usually treat themselves to dinner at a French restaurant.

Small Engines

Did you know that Wakefield High School has a Small Engine Repair Club? It is comprised of a select group of individuals who have successfully completed the small engine class, which is offered twice a year at Wakefield. The club is extremely informal and has no officers but is capably sponsored by Mr. Cogswell. They meet once a week in the springtime because of the convenience of the warm weather. Many are in need of repairs on their lawnmowers, roto-tillers, and various other pieces of garden equipment. The students perform repairs for staff and students who might need them. Aside from the obvious functions of the club, the students also learn the theories behind the operations of engines and they have the option of rebuilding an engine on their own. The Small Engine Repair Club is ideal for those individuals who enjoy working with their hands and desire to transform the useless into the useful.

MATH

The Wakefield High School Math Team consists of fifty members assisted by their sponsor Mrs. McSweeney. The Math team takes the Virginia Math League Test once a month and is scored on a grading scale from one to six. The same test is given to all Math League clubs in Virginia High Schools. Wakefield competes with those clubs whose high schools are in our Potomac District. Debbie Swanson, Scott McWethy, and Toby Thacker are among the top scorers at Wakefield. This year Wakefield has fared well, and although next year many members will be graduating, there are strong underclassmen waiting to fill their shoes. A special praise should be given to all Math teachers at Wakefield who have nurtured the minds of those students on the team and given them skills and extended their knowledge of mathematics.

*The members of the Math team compete in two separate leagues; the Virginia Math League and the Continental Math League. Each league holds six meets during the school year and the meets are held on Tuesday afternoons once a month from November through April.

Vietnamese Club

Some students feel it is hard to adapt to a new school, but how would you like to adapt to a new culture, country and school all at the same time? These students that make up the Vietnamese Club do more than their share to complement the diverse atmosphere of the Wakefield student body. They participate in the Talent Show and the International Sports Tournament. Members sell egg rolls for fundraising, thus adding to the international flavor of the Wakefield diet. Several picnics and parties are held each year in celebration of the Vietnamese New Year. Mr. Khiet Dang sponsors the club and does a fine job in inspiring the culture at Wakefield

High School.

"What I like the best about being in the Vietnamese Club is that we all do things together and share good times. At the New Year celebration in February we exchange gifts and have great food."

DRAMA II & III

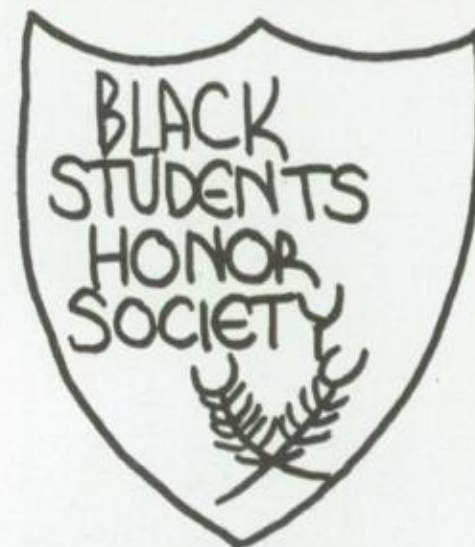

In the beginning of the year, the Drama II and III students utilized their basic skills learned in Drama I to expand their study in the theatrical field. This year in Drama II and III the students helped produce the Wakefield production of The Wiz while sharpening their acting skills through study and scene work. Advanced Drama's first production was 'Outreach III,' a show designed for eighth graders to ease their transitions into high school. Original songs were performed and classical high school stereotypes were portrayed. Parodies of the worst "first day fears" were offered light-heartedly. In short, the Drama Department's students offer the program a wide range of talents and contribute enthusiastically to the program of studies. Ms. Klevins teaches the classes and presents the course in such a way that makes the class come alive. This is an excellent course to prepare those young aspiring students who are seriously considering acting as a profession.

BLACK STUDENTS' ACHIEVEMENT SOCIETY

The purpose of the Black Students Achievement Society is to promote academic excellence among Wakefield's black students. The club's first meeting was in October 1985. They planned, as their first project, a tutorial program. Any black students who needed help could come to room 142 every Tuesday and Thursday after school. Their second project was a black history assembly. It was on February 20 and second period classes were invited. The students dramatized some of their favorite black poems and presented in a readers' theater group format, an original play written by their sponsor, Mrs. Washington.

Other projects which the fifteen members planned included field trips to colleges, guest speakers, and workshops.

RHO

RHO's main responsibilities are Homecoming in the fall and the Tag Dance in the Spring.

RHO's Homecoming responsibilities include the crowning of the King and Queen, co-sponsoring Spirit Week with the Cheerleaders, and arranging the Homecoming Dance. RHO also sells 'Grams' and carnations during Spirit Week. This year RHO began what it hopes to become a tradition on the week before Spirit Week, Indentured Servant Week. During this week, student volunteers are auctioned off to the highest bidder to raise money for the Homecoming Dance. The term of servitude lasted the length of Spirit Week ending at the end of the game on Friday night. RHO raised a record amount of money from these activities this year. During the Tag Dance, RHO sponsored a Kissing booth and had a mock marriage.

Normally all of the money RHO makes from fundraisers goes to paying for the dances they sponsor, but this year they did something new. This year RHO sponsored Dance-a-thon with the Key Club. All the profits were donated to St. Jude's Children Hospital to help pay for life-saving research, supplies, and treatment.

Many people have asked what 'RHO' stands for. The answer is nothing. RHO is the pronunciation of the Greek symbol for the letter 'R.' Now the secret is out.

S.A.D.D.

As most students know, SADD stands for Students Against Drunk Driving. This is the Wakefield chapter's second year in the attempt to increase the awareness among students about the dangers of drinking and driving. Some of SADD's methods included guest speakers, a newsletter, transition work, talking to the PTA, SADD Day, and Project Graduation.

In the fall and winter SADD had various speakers come one of which was Mr. Morris Wheeler whose daughter was killed by a drunk driver. Other speakers talked about their drug and alcohol problems and how they are dealing with them. In November, SADD had an article published in the Northern Virginia Sun explaining SADD and its goals. In January, SADD talked to the PTA in the hope of increasing outside support of the program.

One of the more successful projects of the year were the SADD visits to local elementary and intermediate schools. Members talked about the dangers of drugs and alcohol and answered questions concerning Wakefield, and the use of these substances in high schools.

Another popular SADD sponsored event was Students Against Down in the Dumps Day. This took place in the early spring to raise sagging post-winter spirits.

SADD finished up its projects this year with Project Graduation. During graduation and Prom time a hot-line number was established for anyone who needed a ride home because either they or their ride is too drunk to drive.

Pendulum

The Pendulum staff is a small but dedicated group. Their purpose is to promote the literary efforts of the Wakefield student body. In this pursuit, they publish two magazines each year which are a collection of stories, poems and pictures created by Wakefield students. The staff receives submissions from students on a year 'round basis. As they come in, each submission is read and a decision is made on whether it should be used or not. For those pieces used, a picture, if needed, is either found or drawn. The staff then decides the order of the magazine and sends it to the printer to be published. The magazine is then sold to students through the English department. The money raised by these sales pays for the publishing of the magazine. There is little or no profit made from the sale of the magazine. The Pendulum staff is always eager to receive new submissions and hopes that next year will prove as successful as the past year has been.

"I think it's very important for a writer's, any writer's, work to be read. Students, especially, need this audience. All too frequently papers are written, submitted to a teacher for a grade, handed back, and tossed in the garbage. How very sad! The Pendulum serves this great need, the need for a student's work to be shared and appreciated by peers. Write on!"

Ms. Lee

Maria Spinnett, Ms. Preston, Dena Gollopp and Christine Kroepel represent the Pendulum staff. Not pictured, but equally enthused are: Leigh Espy, Bryan Anderson, Lisa Gardiner, Han Thai, Denese DeJurf and Marti Kunst.

Ms. Preston revels in the success of a magazine well done.

THE CHIEFTAIN

1985

Wakefield High School

1986

Katie Sprague

Her favorite color is green (lettuce, fungus, moss). Her "band" is the Who (Warning: if you value your life then do not crack on them). She wants everyone to know that Wakefield was fun; but so are gangfights! This girl (oh excuse me!) young lady changes the color and tone of her hair more regularly than she does her homework. But can she punch out a story! It is the old light bulb cliché from cartoons; once she gets an idea (flash!) it is just a matter of minutes before it is down on paper in correct English, and without spelling errors! Write on, Katie!

Beth Shorr

Beth Shorr, one of our feature writers, enjoys swimming, going out with friends and listening to her favorite groups Tears for Fears and Yaz. Her writing talents are unsurpassed and she is a true asset to the Wakefield Chieftain and the community. After Wakefield she plans to attend Penn State University and continue her journalistic interests. She is widely admired for her fluorescent orange socks.

Fred Sullivan

Fred personifies the image of the All American boy. He is a quiet person, sometimes, on the Chieftain staff. He has written very interesting stories. This year will be his last year at Wakefield. In his spare time he likes to play tennis and earns money by mowing lawns. He envisions himself in the future as rich and attending the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

★ Personalities ★

Pat Creed

You might think that Pat Creed is just another stuck-up Senior, but you would be wrong! Far from it, Pat is actually pleasant to almost everybody. Pat likes the Boss, Sting, he is a lifeguard during the summer, and he was co-captain on the football team. Pat is very responsible although he often stretches to make deadlines. On the staff of the Chieftain, Pat is invaluable. He gives his best when he describes such topics as, holiday travel, pizza joints, and dating excuses.

Pat helps us Chieftain staff members stay sane, with his cool, and smooth approach and at times he can be hilarious! After graduation he is headed for the U.S. Army.

John Anderson

Conventional thinking comes to a screeching halt when it comes to John Anderson. Some call him bizarre. Some say his is just "different." We at the Chieftain staff have linked both these chains of thought and we consider him different in a bizarre way. When we run out of interesting ideas, someone wakes up John and he thinks of the idea that grabs all of our attention. He may not be considered by many to be overly intelligent (who knows the real truth?), but his creative thinking and wild life style projects a fun and humorous feeling into some otherwise dull days at Chieftain headquarters.

★ Personalities ★

Spencer Burton

Spencer is a feisty Freshman here at Wakefield who uses The Chieftain as a promotional rag for his favorite team: The Redskins. He is so interested in the Hogs that he hasn't had time to develop a real taste for music; he likes Springsteen. For a Freshman, Spencer has a lot of common sense and maturity (Is this a compliment??) As a writer on the Chieftain staff, he has shared some interesting views with Wakefield. His goals in life: maintain his individualistic character and run away to Redskin Camp. He is Truly an Indian at heart!

Mike Hibberd

Mike's method of thinking is never obstructed by such menial things as logic or common sense. His mouth works faster than his brain, causing him to blurt out simple statements that puzzle even the geniuses of the class. Perhaps this can be explained by his inane affection for (1) the Dallas Cowboys, or (2) his black and white fur bomber. He always arrives at school looking as if he has just stepped out of a recent issue of G.Q.

Maria Castillo

Maria Castillo is the newest addition to the Chieftain staff. As well as being a great news reporter, Maria is a fine soccer player. However, in the off season Maria finds herself left with a great amount of extra time. She fills this by lounging around and watching General Hospital. Maria loves to dance. Quite often she finds herself going out to dance with a group of teeny boppers known as the Heartbreakers. Maria's different lifestyle and originality adds a lot to our paper in the form of many new ideas.

DRILL TEAM

The Drill Team of Wakefield is an auxiliary of the Marching Band. It performs at football games, basketball games, parades throughout Virginia and other school functions.

Each year in February the Drill Team conducts tryouts for the next year's team. In each girl they look for school spirit, attitude, and their ability to learn routines. Last year there was a big turnout and this year there are hopes for have an even greater one. The spirit raised by the members more than compensates for the hours of practice and dedication. At the games, the Drill Team members are out there doing their best to represent their school and have fun while they are at it.

Marching band at Wakefield has evolved into an activity that members can be proud of. The band is directed by Mr. John J. Pickeral Jr. who also directs all of the band classes at Wakefield; they meet after school during the first and fourth quarters, in preparation for school assemblies, concert, football games, and basketball games. Besides playing for the Wakefield student body, they also compete in parades; such as the Arlington Parade, where for the last three years they have succeeded in winning first place over both Yorktown and Washington-Lee. They also play concerts for other organizations all around the Washington area.

The Stage Band is an experimental course which gives students a chance to expand their musical talent. They meet every Monday and Thursday after school, during the second and third quarters. The Stage Band consists of saxophones, trumpets, guitars, bass guitar, keyboard, and drums. They play classic jazz tunes like "New York New York" and "Wiggy" which is a favorite of all the musicians in the band. These two groups of talented musicians heighten the warrior spirit at Wakefield functions.

The Concert Band and Advanced Bands meet during fifth and sixth periods each day. Concert Band is for those musicians who are less experienced and, of course Advanced Band is for those with the talent and skill which comes with that experienced. Mr. Pickeral is the director of both these bands and always adds life to the class by joking around and telling stories during class. But don't let this deceive you, it's not all fun and games. A lot of hard work goes into each of these bands. Both bands put on performances separately throughout the year although some of the Advanced Band musicians often sit in with the Concert Band to fill out the sound.

Strings

The Orchestra at Wakefield is under the direction of Ms. Sandberg. She challenges each individual to reach their performing capabilities. The Orchestra usually performs in two school assemblies; one in the Winter and one in the spring. The Winter Concert found the Wakefield Orchestra combining talents with the orchestras of Washington-Lee and Yorktown to perform a host of Christmas classics. The performance was capped off by the Orchestra backing up the Wakefield Choir, Madrigals, and several other Wakefield personalities in a version of "Feliz Navidad." Although little is heard from them throughout the year, the members are dedicated and hard-working which contributes to the near error-free concert when they play. Ms. Sandberg should be credited for the development of her students and the work accomplished by them thus far.

Yearbook

"Copy, copy, we need copy," they say. And with a deadline hours away.

I look around the room. It is Wednesday, January 29, 1986. It is snowing outside. The students have no school today, yet I am surrounded by students hurrying to and fro; typing names, writing copy, counting Quad-Paks, identifying pictures. We have been here 8½ hours. Add that to six hours last Saturday. And all this for a pass/fail class.

I'm very proud of these people. They care. In a world that bemoans adolescents' carelessness, they care. This is my first year at Wakefield; I depend on the dedication of my staff. We meet every day in room 101 from 12:10-1:04. At any given time, there are a dozen or so issues to be dealt with simultaneously, lay-out design, copy writing and editing, photograph cropping, business finances, and advertising contracts. The staff has consistently reaffirmed my faith and trust in them as responsible individuals.

It is still snowing. Tom Scarry will be here in the morning to pick up eighty Quad-Paks. Perhaps he will be snowed out (a grin lights up her brow). And they're still working...

WAKEFIELD LATIN CLUB

Nota Bene! Wakefield High School is fortunate to have one of the optimum Latin Clubs in toto mundo. We love to put on our Gucci togas and our Ben-Hur sandals and terrorize the D.C. art galleries. We brought Roman Culture to the boonies in Roanoke at the VJCL Convention in November and won a bunch of maximos honores. On Level I we tried a new text called Ecce Romani and everybody was disappointed that even this new book has charts of declensions and conjugations. We all looked really great on the National Latin Exam and at the WCS Certamen. Our charioteer, Magistra Davis, (not much of a teacher but you should see her play tennis!) dragged us off to Magnum Malum (that's the Big Apple) to look at the famous Greek vases at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and to stroll down Quinta Via (Fifth avenue). Our officers this year are Rick Norton, Matt Wilkinson, Chris Budd, Alka Bhargava, Irma Xicohtencatl, Marti Kunst and Laura Tomb. We leave you with this sage Roman saying: Semper Ubi Sub Ubi!!

This year's football teams were headed by a proficient and dedicated staff. A proposal was suggested, before the board, for an added football coach. The football players worked hard and put forth much effort in this year's season. Their records were:

Bernie Holmes was elected to play in the State All Star Game in July. It will be held in Lynchberg.

The 1985 football team raised money through various efforts for the new weight room. It was opened in the beginning of February. The coaches urge all those healthy males to come and join the football teams and use this new equipment.

The next couple of seasons should hold a lot of good fortune for the Wakefield Varsity Basketball Team, for the team employs no seniors, several juniors and a few sophomores, providing the team with promise for future years. Despite the fact that no one on the team is over 6' tall, the team suffers no handicap.

The team started out the year with a win over O'Connell at the Arlington tournament. Unfortunately, it suffered a heart breaking one point loss to Washington-Lee in the championship game. This did not darken the spirits of the Warriors. After Christmas, the team started to jell. This led to exciting wins over Chantilly, West Springfield, and two defeats of the Potomac district rival: Jefferson. Entering February, the Warriors found themselves in first place in the district, with hopes of finishing the season strong. The chance of winning a championship and going to the regionals was on everyone's mind.

The team is led by 6' junior, Joe Lowe. Lowe has been the leading scorer in the northern region, scoring at least twenty-one points a game. Additional scoring has been provided by 5'6" junior, Putt Smith and 6' junior, Keith Spraggins. The Warriors defense has been anchored by 6' forward, Steve Cross and sophomore surprise, Aaron Bea. Playmaking duties have been in the capable hands of 5'11" co-captain Kevin Gaskins, who has been averaging five assists a game.

Bob Veldran coaches the Varsity Basketball team. His leadership and strength are the foundation for the never ending spirit of the team. Mr. Veldran states that the success of the Warriors is due to a true team effort.

As the book goes to press, the J.V. Boys' Basketball Team record is 8-7, 5-4 in the Potomac District with 4 games left in the season. This year the team has been plagued by injury and illness more than in past years. Because of this, players have been moved up from the freshman team and new players have been added to the program.

In Coach Tomb's words: "We have a lot of potential and we hope to pull together and finish up the season strong."

Freshmen Boys' Basketball

This year, the boys' freshmen basketball team had a rough start. Players were moved up from the freshman team to the J.V. team causing holes in the line-up. Nevertheless, the team is finishing up their season with a record of 11-5 and a district record of 11-3 which puts them in first place in the Potomac District. As of this writing, there are four scheduled games left. If the team wins one of the two district games, they will be District Champs.

The lead scorer this year is Glen Michael, the lead rebounder is Dicky Prather, the lead in assists are Randy Lyons and Marcus McKinney. Scott Carter has been best all around player.

The team is coached by Allan Glascock, an '84 Wakefield graduate. Allan was on the team throughout his years here and became captain of the varsity. And they say you can't go home again!

Rodney Hunter goes for the shot against the Yorktown block.

Varsity Girls' Basketball

The Girls' Varsity Basketball Team is already a group that is greatly improved over last year. This is due largely to the fact that the team is comprised of five seniors and only three juniors. Their District standing this year is 6-3, 10-5 overall. Leading scorers are co-captains Stacey Wanzer and Janice Moore and also Theresa Benkovich. Other outstanding seniors on the team are Debbie Swanson and Angie Hargrow. Among the junior members of the team are first year varsity Zenola Lewis and second year varsity Kathleen Kerr. These girls under the strength and leadership of Coach Grimm are making the 1985-86 season a very successful one.

"These five years playing basketball with Stacey, Debbie, Jan, and Angie have been memorable and I'll miss not playing with them in the future."

The school and team spirit exhibited by the girls' Junior Varsity Basketball team, despite the rough season, has been an inspiration to all involved. Hard work and dedication pulled the team together and will propel them forward in the years ahead.

Both Mrs. Mason, as a first year coach, and the girls, many of whom are freshmen, began the season as novices on the court. Thousands of dribbles later, the team has learned the invaluable lessons experience teaches and anxiously awaits the opportunity of a new season to try their new tricks of the trade.

High scorers were Laura Fidler (capt.) and Raquel Acevedo.

The outcome of the 1986 J.V. Baseball season depended primarily on the pitching staff. The rotation of Glen Michael, Marshall Furr, Scott Carter, and Denis Vasquez threw strikes consistently and were competitive enough to win a few games. The defense behind our pitching was also a key to success. Several combinations were used due to the fact that some players played more than one position during the course of the season. The team needed to improve a great deal offensively and scored some runs behind consisting hitting. As a coach, Mr. Glascock stressed hard work and he wasn't disappointed with the players work habits. The team played a very tough schedule this year with the bulk of it being against district foes. Other big games during the year were against county rivals Yorktown and Washington-Lee.

This year the Boys Varsity Baseball Team can be described as a young but extremely experienced team. The team has a bright outlook towards a successful season, how successful depends on the pitching that the team receives. Returning pitcher, junior, Luke Bair, who is the returning Potomac District pitcher for the team, was the ace. Real key effectiveness came from junior, Steve Coss, and senior Cory Reddick. Hitting came from powerful hitters: catcher, Chris Lavat, second baseman, Garnell

Stewart, first baseman, Tony Wallin, center-fielder, Putt Smith, and out-fielder, Eric Rainey.

The team returns ten letterman from last year's team. The two goals the team is working towards are to battle for the Potomac District Championship and to get to the Regional Tournament. Coach Veldran feels that the team is, "A close-knit, hard working, group of kids that I like to work with. I think that they can be winners in the next two years."

Varsity Softball

Most people recognize Wakefield High School for success in basketball and tennis, but few know about the success of the Varsity Softball team. The team is the defending Potomac District Champions for the fourth consecutive year.

Wakefield Varsity Softball had ten players returning this year and five players that were new to the program. Of those ten returning players, two were the Senior Captains Cindy Estrada and Susan Meyerson. With the absence of Sharon Graham, Coach Kalepp stressed that pitching would be their key to a successful season and Sophomore Donna Leigh and others hope to fill the position.

The season opened against Yorktown with games against West Potomac and Jefferson to follow. Once again, as expected, Chantilly was a strong contender for the championship. Congratulations are extended to Coach Kalepp and the Varsity Softball team for their outstanding efforts.

J.V. SOFTBALL

The Junior Varsity Softball team looked forward to a new and winning season this year. The team consisted of fifteen players. There were four returning starters: Patti Cook, Stacy Kiser, Pam Parker and Cara Robinson. Many of the players have played softball in some type of organized league before. There were also a few eager players who were brand new to the sport and worked hard to learn all the skills.

The team looked to improve their record from last year. Some tough competition in the district this year were Chantilly and Fairfax, who usually rank in first or second place. Outside the district, the tough competition came from West Potomac, Mount Vernon and Lee High School. The strong points of the team were "at the bat" with base running and our pitching. The infield came on strong as well as the outfield.

The Boys junior Varsity Soccer team was blessed with many new players this year, in addition to the increasing number of new players, the skill of these young players is overwhelming. The incoming Freshmen and the first time Sophomores and Juniors should provide a balanced team with a potent and high scoring offense. The defense and mid-field will be far from shabby as the young players possess a remarkable ability to play well with each other from the first day. The Junior Varsity team also has several younger brothers of highly skilled Varsity players. Hopefully for the J.V. team, talent runs in the family. The J.V. team was guided by Mr. John Hudgins, an excellent player and soccer veteran, as the coach of the team. This powerful young team should definitely look to a good future this season.

Nelson Vasquez follows the bouncing ball.

Russ Lathrop uses his head.

The boys varsity soccer team for 1985-86 had more skill than any boys team to come through Wakefield High School in years, so says Mr. Terry Collins. The highly knowledgeable boys varsity coach, Mr. Collins, had sky-high hopes for this team and devoted a great deal of time to his team. The team had the majority of its players returning this year, and hoped to have a very productive season with an excellent shot at winning the

The Girls Varsity Soccer team was faced with its toughest season to date. The team lost their fine goalie of last year, Lisa Krug, to graduation. But team spirit runs high with returning Seniors Debbie Swanson, Christi Snyder, Stephanie Ritz and Mary Smaragdis.

Like the J.V. soccer team, the Varsity team received a new coach this year in the form of Snow Fielding.

Plagued by injuries, the team lost star player Amy Lambeth in the early season in a game against Washington-Lee, and returning Senior Stephanie Ritz was out for awhile with a sprained ankle.

The program had good potential talent this year and the younger players gave good support. The team's record is a reflection of their participation in an extremely tough district.

Wakefield High School has a great number of sports teams in its athletic program. One of the lesser known, but successful programs, is the Boys Gymnastics Team. This year the team is young with only four Senior members. Even with the youth of this team Mr. Lee, their coach, feels they have a good chance at Districts and he has great hopes for future teams.

Most people think of Gymnastics as purely a girl's sport. It is, in fact, a boy's sport also. Just a few of the many strenuous events that the Wakefield team participates in include the parallel bars, rings, and vaulting horse which are difficult to learn and master.

There are great hopes for the team next year. The boys will all be experienced and ready to go!

The Indoor Track team is one of three track teams at Wakefield High School. The other two are the Cross Country and Spring Track teams. The Indoor runners must be the most dedicated, for their season is in the dead of the winter. Often, due to the inclement weather, the Indoor Track Team practices inside the school or at the Thomas Jefferson Community Center. The team consists of sixteen males and five females with two coaches. This year, the team is exceptionally young. There are only five seniors on the team this year and a brand new coaching staff.

Some events at an Indoor Track Meet include the 50 meter dash, the 100 meter hurdles, and the shot put throw. The competition in the Indoor Track season is very similar to the competition in the spring and fall and all the events are run "fast and furious." This year's winter team was headed by Theodros Fisseha, a first class runner who finished the fall Cross Country season with top honors.

If you consider these sports your major sport, then participate in Track during the off season and let us help you become better prepared physically and mentally: Indoor or Outdoor Track. As you can see the track team is growing and growing and these Athletes have worked very hard to be very competitive in the Potmac District. The Potmac District is one of the strongest Districts in the Northern Region and your track team has represented Wakefield very well. The team would like to thank Head Coach Billups and his able assistant coaches Mr. McFail, Mr. Avery, and Mr. Brittain. Track Is Back At Wakefield High.

The Wakefield High School Swim and Dive Team consists of approximately fifty participants. Mr. Lee takes on the job of both the swim and dive coach again this year and is ably assisted by the team manager Alycia Grigor. This year the team is captained by Mike Garrison. The team is especially spirited with Toby Thacker, Scott McWethy, and Doug Campbell as the team cheerleaders. Charlie Cline, a junior, qualified this season in the fifty yard freestyle under the All-American cut-off standard. Some of the most popular events to swim are the fifty and five hundred yard freestyles and the four hundred yard medley relay. The diving team, headed by Chris Lee with several wins this year, is judged by Mr. Lee and the opposing team's coaches. The swim team and dive team provide great support for each other, when a member is up for their event.

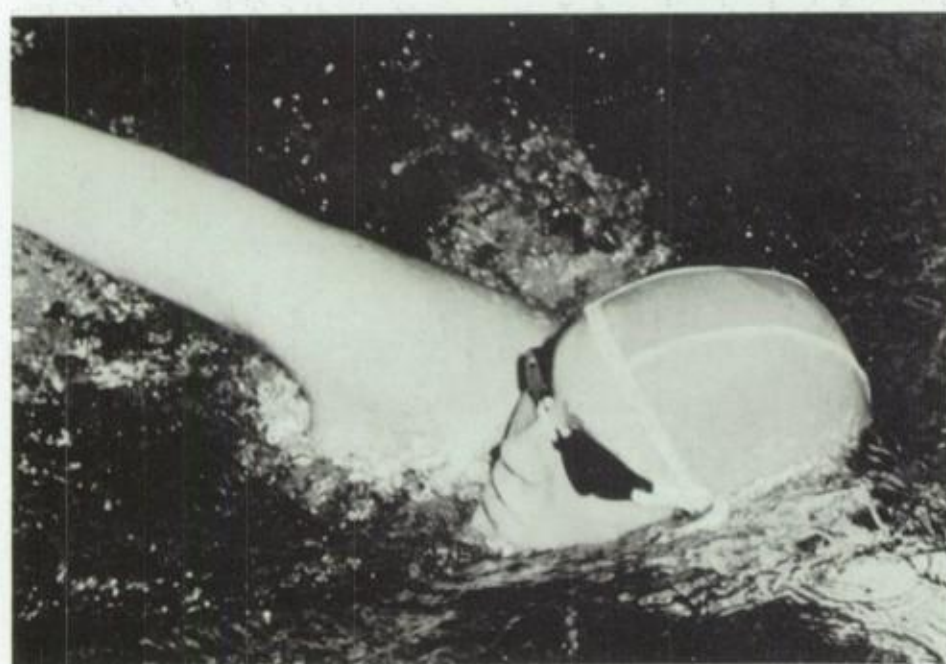

Many parents and faculty members such as Mr. and Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Cline, Mrs. Shorr, and Mr. Rife have volunteered many hours on Saturday mornings during the season to help keep time, and be starters. Thanks to them, the meets run smoothly and efficiently.

Doug Campbell waits anxiously for the next set.

Golf

This year's edition of the Warrior Golf Team participated in two invitational tournaments, eight dual matches, and the Potomac District Tournament. The team began its season by playing in the Herdon Invitational and concluded its season by playing in, and finishing second to O'Connell by two strokes, in the Arlington Optimist Tournament. That finish, barely missing first place. The team finished with a 3-3 record, with close losses to Jefferson and Fairfax and victories over Stuart, Annandale, and Falls Church. The team finished a strong fourth in the District Tournament, with Senior Rick Norton qualifying for the fourth time in his high school career for the Northern Region tournament.

The members of the Golf team are: Scott Olson, Rick Norton, Mark Summers, John Donalds, and Chris Bach. Not pictured are: Michael Manning and John Staren.

Wrestling

While this year's Wrestling Team may not have had the best of records, they have begun the process of forming a team of future champions. The team is comprised completely of underclassmen. While there is not a lot of experience, there is a lot of enthusiasm and hope for next year. As one member puts it, "Most of our team will be returning next year and the coaches are hoping to build up the great wrestling image of Wakefield."

This year's wrestling team is headed by two new and enthusiastic Coaches. Coach Tim McAteer, the head coach, isn't new to the program overall. Although he was an assistant for Coach Randell, this is his first year as head coach. Cleveland "Bubby" James is McAteer's assistant; he also was an assistant coach for football this last season. We hope these two dedicated coaches return.

Next year the coaches hope for a big turnout. Wrestling is a traditional sport and is a sport that builds the mind as well as the body. So come on guys, show off, come out for the wrestling team. Build those biceps!

The wrestling team's record this year does not show their outstanding effort. Because of a season which was broken up between JV and Varsity, the record shows Wakefield's Boys' Tennis Team faced a challenging year as defending district champs. Over thirty-six students competed for team spots this year. Two sets of 'Round Robin' were played to determine positions; the first set divided the team into 6 groups of 6, while the second made up the highly competitive ladder. The team underwent a lot of changes this year as 5 of the top 6 players had either moved or graduated. A very promising group of ninth graders demonstrated the talent and skill capable of placing them in the top 6 in the next season. With the combination of replacements and young new players, it has been an interesting season.

The Boy's Team has won the District Championship four times in the last five years. The team has participated in the Regional Semi-Finals three times in the last five years. The first match of the season, following the H-B Tournament held March 17-21, was held on March 25. The season concluded on May 7. this year Wakefield hosted the District, Regional, and State Tournaments on May 12, 19, and 28-29, respectively. It is the second year Wakefield has hosted the Regional tournament and the first time Wakefield has ever hosted the Boy's State Tournament.

For those that remain in active competition for the top six spots, the season extends far beyond the spring. As of this publication's date John Simko rates first on the ladder, Jean-Marc Grassia ranks second. Juan Arenas and Scott Olson are third and fourth with Rick Norton occupying fifth position. Competing for the sixth place are Eric Hilston, Derrick Kittle, Greg Rease, and John Stern, who holds a decided edge. The team is greatly in debt to Mr. Tomb for his dedication and hard work as their coach.

The girls' tennis team has a good season with a record of 7-7, a Potomac District record of 6-6, and a Wakefield Invitational record of 1-1.

Laura Tomb placed 3rd in District singles with a singles record of 9-3 and a Wakefield Invitational record of 2-0. Ellen Olden had a record of 8-4 in singles and a Wakefield Invitational record of 1-1. Laura Tomb and Anoulone Viphoulante were elected to the coaches' All District team.

The Fall Sports Banquet was held on the evening of November 26, 1985. The potluck dinner, sponsored by the Wakefield Booster Club, brought the athletes, coaches, and friends and family together for a night of awards and praise as well as good food and entertainment. The sports represented by the Fall Sports Banquet included: Golf, Girl's Tennis, Cross Country, and Varsity, Junior Varsity and Freshman Football.

Among those given special awards were: Theodros Fisseha, Most Valuable — Boy's Cross Country, Laura Tomb, Most Valuable — Girl's Tennis, and Darrell Coleman, Coaches Award — Football. These are just a few of the many outstanding student players recognized during Banquet. These players as well as the Varsity Cheerleaders were praised for the contributions to Wakefield and encouraged to continue with their fine example of participation.

In swimming, Leah Gaffen won the Booster Club Award along with Toby Thacker, captain of the swimming team. Mike Garrison, Diana Harvey, and Captain of the diving team Mark Summers won the Coach's Awards. The Swim Team obtained the highest grade point average on the team Honor Roll with the girls having a 4.37 average and the boys a 3.99 average. Charlie Cline received special All-American Award for the swimming time of 20.7 seconds in the fifty yard freestyle. It is the second fastest time in the United States.

Congratulations to all the members of all the teams, this year, for doing such a fine job.

The Wonderful Wiz

The Wakefield drama department came through with another gem of a production this year. An emerald to be exact! The Emerald City was portrayed in Wakefield's annual school play this year. The play was The Wiz which is based on the story The Wonderful Wizard of Oz by Frank Baum. The Wiz itself was a Broadway production and was originally written by William F. Brown and the music by Charlie Smalls.

A school play allows for any student to take part, and The Wiz provided good opportunities for many people to get involved in school activities. Wakefield has been especially gifted for several years in terms of drama talent and this year's production was no exception. The main characters in the play were excellently casted, as there was probably a good deal of competition for each part, and each character had a very capable understudy. The lead roles were portrayed by Teresa Audrey as Dorothy; Thadd McQuade as the Scarecrow; Todd Reischman as the Tin Man, Kyle Rudgers as the Cowardly Lion, and Sean Blume as The Wiz himself. One of the many spectacular aspects of The Wiz was the lengthy cast. A few of the other important roles were played by Lisa Sullivan as Aunt Em and Kristie Kern as the loud and ostentatious Addoperle. Adrienne Leigh fit her role to a "T" as she portrayed the demanding, bossy, but funny Evlene, and Glenda was played by Rene Brown. Another one of the Wiz's excellent characteristics was the lighting and the special effects. The lighting did an excellent job of setting the mood for each individual scene. The special effects played an important role in keeping the audience captivated with the constant action taking place on stage. Among the effects were explosions, and lit dang-ling signs. During the intermissions of the three shows, the senior class had a variety of refreshments for sale. This was simply the icing on three wonderfully successful nights of drama.

Last Minute Victory

As dusk fell upon Wakefield High School on October 18, 1985, there was great anticipation for a warrior victory over Falls Church High School. The stands were packed with students and staff of past and present and the adrenalin of the players was running high. The crowd was vocal in the early going hoping to be a factor in the Warrior victory, but as half-time came there was no jubilation as Wakefield trailed 13-0. But as many Wakefield opponents have learned through the years, "It ain't over 'til it's over."

The Warriors took the field determined not to let their fans down. They held Falls Church at bay in the third quarter and there seemed to be light at the end of the tunnel. Wakefield then went on the warpath behind Joe Lowe (who was 11 for 16 for 190 yards) in the fourth quarter, exploding for fourteen unanswered points. Falls Church struck one more time to take a 20-13 lead with just a few minutes left. Wakefield took advantage of a Falls Church miscue and marched down the field. With just fifty-five seconds left, Wakefield broke the plane of the goal line again and Marty Pagach added the extra point to make it 21-20. The stands erupted and the fans were ecstatic as another Wakefield game ended with the Warriors standing tall.

Joe hands the ball to James "J.B." Brooks who, with the help of the linemen, carries the ball closer to the endzone.

Freshmen Class came in last with "Safari."

Excitement characterized the halftime festivities. The band and the drill team started off halftime by playing and performing "We Are The World." The float theme, which was "vacation sites," captured the imagination and spirit of the Wakefield students. First place was awarded to the senior class' "Life Is a Beach," second place went to the sophomores' "Las Vegas," the juniors' "Ski Holiday" and the freshmen's "Safari" took third and fourth place respectively. The National Honor Society balloon sale was another success, with the seniors chalking up their second victory with a total sale of 588 balloons. Colored balloons — green for the seniors, yellow for the juniors, peach for the sophomores, and purple for the freshmen — filled the air above the field as excited spectators cheered and anxiously awaited the main event. The excitement peaked as the class attendants, the court, and the soon-to-be-queen took their places for the ceremony. After the RHO Representative, Katie Sprague, crowned the King, Scott McWethy, the crowd eagerly awaited announcement of the queen. Susan Meyerson, Debbie Hall, and Kristi Griswold were candidates, but the night belonged to Ms. Hall as she was crowned the 1985 Homecoming Queen.

Weekends

As the weekend approaches, the same student body that seems somewhat reserved during the week, experiences what is commonly referred to as "Warrior Fever." The weekend is an opportunity to be freed from the pressures of school, the bell schedule, crowded halls, and competitive courses. Starting with Friday night games; a stirring unity of Wakefield spirit flows through everyone in its own way. Many students feast after games at Pizza Hut, and then gather at parties held by various students. Others disperse in couples and enjoy the nightlife by taking in a movie at one of the neighboring theatres. Most students, though, scatter in cars with clusters of their closest friends and cruise to wherever their spirits take them. Yet, wherever Wakefield students spend their weekends, they share that Warrior fever. As the weekend winds down, and Monday rolls around, students plug their energy back into their studies. The nightlife has ended until the next weekend. The students go back to work storing that Wakefield High School spirit deep inside.

Head Honchos

The versatility of the teachers at Wakefield High School truly reflects the academic achievement produced at the school. Teachers are not just one dimensional as in other high schools; these teachers feel free to get involved and interact with the students. They participate in everything from Spirit Week to Halloween Dress-Up Day.

Teachers are concerned with the development of the students in and out of the classroom and take their personal time to give extra help to those students who are having problems with their studies. The advantage of having teachers who take pride in their work is that it promotes the respect of the students which, in turn, drives them to obtain higher goals.

Friends

Both on the "reservation" and off, Wakefield students repeatedly show that schooling means more than academics and sports. Deep and lasting friendships are forged during these years, and Wakefield students carry these memories of emotions shared, of good times and bad throughout their adult lives. Looking back on these memories, for years to come, we can all agree they are and were A CUT ABOVE!

CLOSING

Senior Soaps

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times. Wakefield had never been in such turmoil, and the students were loving every minute of it. Just after the announcement that Stephanie Francis had been hit by a car at the Senior class car wash, 2 of the most respected students, Ellen Olden and Beth Shore, were caught in a drug deal by Julius Tolentino. Tina Rhodes spent weeks depressed that her main dealer had been caught, until her eyes caught sight of sexy Pat Creed! She seemed to be constantly smiling after that, because she did not know that Pat had a secret crush on Sunny Schlichter. Sunny, however, simply laughed when Pat asked her out because everyone knew that she was in the middle of a very serious relationship with Blair Starinsky. She was serious, that is, until one day Blair showed up with his two kids and confessed to Sunny that he was a married man. Sunny could not believe it. She then got together with Pat in revenge.

Things seemed to be going well for awhile, until a 2-headed, 3-armed Coke devouring monster hit Wakefield. Wayne Giese was hired by Heather Gibson to keep an eye on her lover, Rick Cutlip. Rick was so thoroughly tracked that he broke down and confessed about his affair with Theresa Benkovich. Later Theresa and Rick skipped town and got married. This left Heather so demented that she often got lost on her way to the bedroom. But she wasn't the only one who was cracking under the pressure of Senior Exams and lost loves. Linda Kissle was often seen in the library attempting to carry on a conversation with the carrolls.

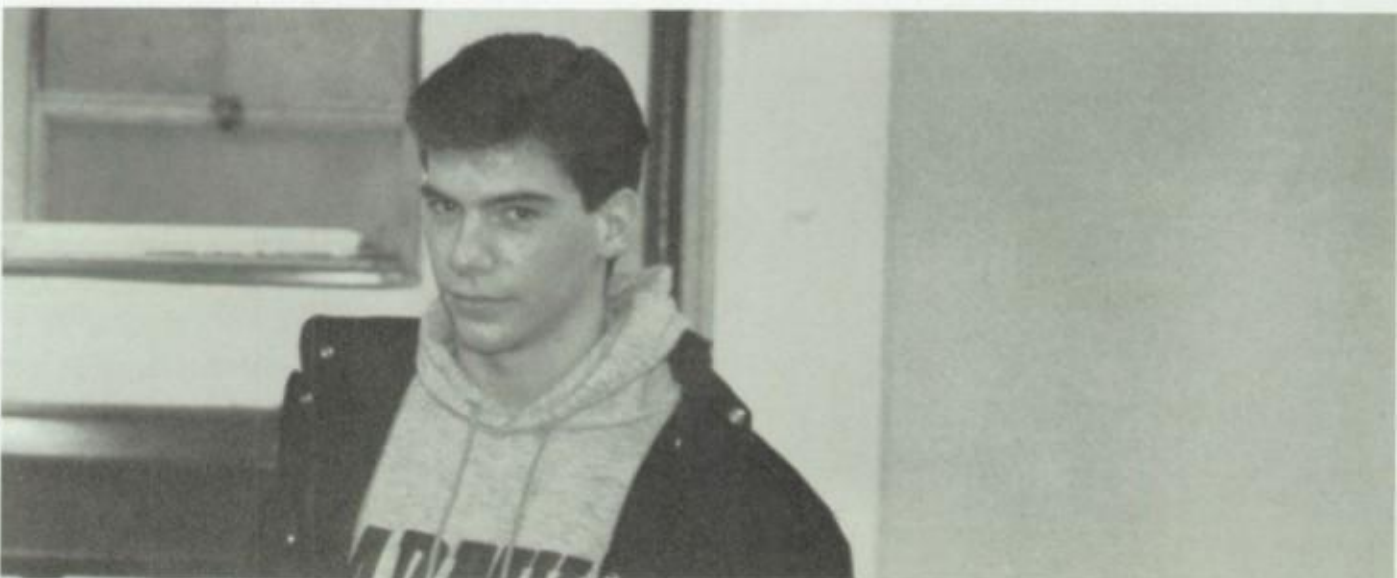

Everyone decided that some time was needed to kick back and relax, so RHO held a dance. All was not well, though, because Chris Weakley and Mark Summers tore the cafeteria apart in a massive fight over Stacey Wanzer. Stacey couldn't have cared less, however, because she was far too mature for them and besides, her main man was Steve Pagach, the proprietor of a swank downtown hotel.

The hotel was the focal point of city wide publicity at the time. It was the site of the murder of Liz Franck, a famous Broadway star. It was finally discovered that Chris Joulwan was insanely jealous, because Liz had gotten the lead role in 'The Life and Times of Toby Thacker'. Rita Balzhiser, the famous private investigator, and Anne Balzhiser, her water girl, cracked the tough case. Anne was promoted to pencil sharpener, as a result.

Back at Wakefield, Mike Pickett's sister Jan Moore was kidnapped. Instead of ransom money, a date was the condition for the turn of Jan. Mike held out for as long as he could until his best friend Eduardo Mariano convinced Mike Garrison that a date with Kelly Song would not be that bad. So Mike and Kelly went out, but only on the condition that they double date with Alison Miller and Mike. Jan was finally returned. Meanwhile, Debbie Swanson and Thai Nguyen, who had gotten married in the middle of their Sophomore year, got separated. Debbie discovered that Thai was having affairs with Debbie Hall and Tran Hoang-Yen and Dari Hamilton, all at the same time. They were about to finalize the divorce when Debbie fell head over heels for Will Stern, Bill Pell, and Larry Fulton. Deciding that the score was even, they all moved in together and lived happily ever after, until Debbie got pregnant and couldn't figure out who the father was. Alicia Simolunas, who was in the same situation, became fast friends with Debbie. Together they started an Unknown Father's Pregnant Mother's Support Group (U.F.G.M.S.G.). At first, the group consisted of only Lailuma Aimen, Elizabeth Brown, Shu Weng, Lisa Balcazar, Lisa Ferrell, and Ana Webb until Lecia Williams, Nora Bedoy, Nancy Proffitt, Jordana Arzadon, Valerie Reid, Pick Bokeo, Amy Turner, Hoa-Sou Phe, and Kelly Salee joined. Since the group held its meetings on Friday nights, none of the members could attend a party given by Sofia Rafiq. Half the school attended, including Sylvia Brayboy, Colin Phiri, Saul Aciego, Daniel Armanca, Melanie Avila, Carlton Baker, Vuthy Reach, Ursula Brown, Javier Bernedo, Mike Davis, Charles Byers, Ervin Garner, Lisa Flakes, Lily Duong, Tom Trees, Tricia Flynn, Barbara Ewell, Michelle Niemiec, Mulenga Funda, Amro Diab, Tamin Ehsan, Adrienne Leigh, Oscar Salinas, Lisa Gardiner, Zubair Aziz, Erwin Franco, Ken Butler, Lorraine Tynes, Darwin Easley, Ahmad Amin, Theodros Fisseha, Frank Brown, Tammy Flynn, Peng-Kim Lim, Ramin Bolouri, and Chris Fox were the life of the party. Anna Amores who got totally wasted, uncovered the secret that Bryan Anderson and Belinda Angus were in business. Bryan was a gigolo and Belinda was a madame of a large and successful brothel. Belinda had the prettiest girls working for her such as Angel Courteau, Denese DeJerf, Melanie Rateliff, Donna Cook, Sylvia Villacampa, Jacqui Rojas, Myitzu Win, Haleena Rahman, Avis Blackwell, Chrissy Payne, Terri Campbell, Tyra Cooper, Suzanne Deer, Renee Taylor, and Stephanie Van Stone. Everyone was shocked at the news, especially Bryan's girlfriend, Ellen Libby. Robert Armbrust, Belinda's boyfriend didn't really mind, since Belinda just answered the phones. Mitchell Smith, Terrance Thomas, Dustin Tull, Jerry Taylor, Mike Porter, Thu Huong Trinh, Garnet Thorpe, Jeff Wineberger, Kyle Savage, Minh Tran, Fred Sullivan, Jerome Watson, Oscar Reyes, Russell Smith and Cory Redick got angry with their girlfriends, that the whole group quit in the hopes of saving their relationships. Needless to say, Belinda went bankrupt.

The students returned to school on Monday to find the Seniors on strike. They had formed a picket line around the school, headed by Earl Stroud and Lisa Sullivan. They were protesting the fact that Juniors were going off campus for lunch. A couple of Juniors got upset, and started yelling at sweet innocent Kristi Griswold. Kristi broke down in tears unable to take the verbal attack. Tim Hale and Rick Moten got so angry that they jumped in to save Kristi. Kristi, full of gratitude, quickly fell in love with Tim.

Around third period, the news quickly buzzed around the school that Farshid Alae, the school president had been fired from his position. Farshid had been caught extorting millions of dollars from the Senior class treasury, by using Barrett East's computer. The money could not be recovered, so Leigh Espy and Paul Melia had to announce that the Senior Prom had been cancelled. Doug Deker and Deirdre Barr (a well known couple) who had been eagerly awaiting the Prom got so upset they plotted revenge. Along with, Bassel Yassin, Michael Woodson, Rick Norton, Melissa Rudert, Alka Bhargava, Ron Burton, Theresa Brennan, Stefanie Ritz, Mike Braxton, Donna Patterson, and Carol Owenby, they broke into Farshid's house. They stole the T.V., the stereo, the V.C.R., and the collection of paintings by an unknown artist, then headed for a new target. Unknown to Mary Smaragdis, Melissa Simmons, Joan Stiltz, Irma Xicohtencatl, Lily Wang, Teresa Audrey, Kelly Sherman, Alycia Grigor, Angela Hargrow, Tawanda Barnes, and Carlita Stroman who were at a party at the target house. They never noticed the house being trashed and T.P'd.

After the students had finally gotten over everything, Nicole Harrigan's ex-boyfriend's girlfriend's brother's best friends' father's step brother Pat Albee became an AID's victim. Pat's best friend, John Anderson was so dismayed that his identity split. He thought he was David Wright at times and Tim Wilson at others. He even took on the personality of Sam Santiago.

It wasn't long afterwards that Cindy Clayborne started a Heavy Metal Band called Joe Cool and the Ice Cubes. The band consisted of Siny Ngan, Christy Snyder, Hen Xien Ly, John Simko, Phoung-Quynh Ngoc Vu, Haren Smith, and John Hedrick. They won first place at the Arlington Fine Arts Festival with the Tap dancing quintet of Dawn Dunlap, Francisca Campos, Lai-Wah Chee, Cindy Estrada, and Michelle Harrington not far behind. However, the tappers had to be disqualified because the quintet had registered for the contest as an all girl dance troupe. It was discovered that Lai was in fact a guy. When Jon Glock, Lai's boyfriend found out, he broke off their engagement and started going out with Tamara Gaper.

This was practically the same situation with Bernie Holmes and Katie Sprague. Bernie was the most popular guy in school and Katie was a bchy beauty. Katie constantly hinted that she knew of Bernie's affairs but Bernie swore he was devoted solely to her. One night Katie walked in on him and Tara Smith. She stormed out, they broke up, and it was soon uncovered that he had been seeing Clarissa Cook, Christine Condra, and Gia-Hue Doan. Katie made a big deal of it, until Michelle Grammatica let everyone know the Katie had been messing around with Thi Truong Diep, Ngoc-Linh Do, Darrell Coleman, Jim Jones, Jorge Moreira, and John Kimble. Katie was so humiliated that she committed suicide by sitting in the middle of a snowstorm without a jacket on.

Meanwhile, Ryan Ferguson and Tracy Gorton were busy trying to organize a Suprise Party for the Senior's favorite teacher, Mr. Macekura. They invited Steven Hughes, Kwong Sik Lui, Hoang-Oanh Tran, Truong-Thi Chi, Michael Hibberd, Kim-Loan Nguyen, Kousonh Ekasone, Sheila Johnson, Quynh-Chi Tran, Sanjay Sikka, Han Thai, Brian Logan, Deval Patel, Angie Jackson, Laura Murphy, John Sprague, Chris Leach, Van Can Tan, Allen Marchione, Huong Thi Troung, Lisa Houser, Vin Ong, Michael Manning, Traion Stallings, Chris Lee, Kwang Cho, Gloria Ortiz, Jill Lockwood, Tan Thanh Pham, Pao Tray, and N. the last minute, they discovered that the hall they had rented would not be big enough to hold all these people. They had to try delicately to tell some that they were uninvited. Thadd McQuade and Scott McWethy were very insulted that they had now been asked not to come, so they organized their own party. Joe Cool and the Ice Cubes were asked to play for the audience of Jean-Marc Grassia, Zelda Pinwheel, Marlene Gaskill, Myteena Gaskill, Eric Hardman, Phany Ngoc, Melissa McKay, Franck Haddock, Abdul Karim, Wahida Hamidi, Sam Jones, Chris Goodall, Cassandra Henderson, Tanya McKee, Marti Kunst, J.C. Hailstock, Jay Ngin, Pam Johnson, Rose King, Ron Greene, Susan Meyer-son, Le Thanh Khuong, Matt Haught, Lori McFail, Luyen Ngoc Mai, Muoi Luong, Farkhunda Jahed, William Mohn, Jin-Suk No, Jami Simonton, and Ky-Luan Son. The tap dancing quintet, now a quartet, entertained also. The scene at Thadd and Scott's party got pretty dull, so everyone decided to crash the first party. Things developed into a massive food fight and the police had to come and break things up.

People rested up over the weekend, convinced that enough had happened in the past couple of weeks to fill up a year. Students were looking forward to a quiet Monday, but that was not the case. A fight developed in the hallway right after homeroom. If one could see through the crowd hanging around, one would have seen Natale Ferragut beating up Linda Moss. It seemed that over the weekend Linda had been flirting with Natale's boyfriend and Natale was not going to let Linda get away with it. Manuel Iglesias and Chris Pauls tried to break up the fight but Natale was so mad she beat them up too. Finally it took Chris Kroepel, Van Son and Eric Hilton to calm her down. Poor Linda was a mess.

That same day, a whole class got suspended from school. A Harvard Law student was substituting and the kids did not get along with her. They decided to take things into their own hands, and Mr. Armstrong later found her locked in a closet. Since no one would confess or give away information, they all were dismissed from school. Harry Lambert, Su-Thin Ly, Hung Quoc Ma, Tracy Henderson, Dung Anh Ngo, France Luanghy, Kim-Loan Nguyen, Nelson Henriquez, Victor Lainez, Thai Hong, Nguyet Nguy, Thu Trinh, Moses Hillegass, Duong Lu, Vui Thi Tran, Phi Phan Nguyen, Patty Mastic, Ngoc Le, Ai-Linh Huynh, Phong Le, Mary ann Licudine, Thanh Nguyen, Mary Kishigawa, Troung-Thi Le, Lam Khoung, Vahn Inthavongdy, Thai, Nguyen, Sok Chou tea, tia Jackson and Seng Tang stayed home for 3 days.

The school year was finally coming to an end. Shannon Nicholson, in her Valedictorian speech, summed up the year, "We had some good times, we had some great times, and now it's over, party at my house!"

Career Center

Sean Eversberg, concentrating on not amputating any limbs.

The Career Center serves as an extension to the extra-curricular courses offered at Wakefield High School. Students who complete courses at the Career Center are qualified for vocational and technical jobs in the job market. Instructors assist students in job placement upon the successful completion of individual programs.

The Career Center offers a wide variety of courses. The three main subdivisions are: The fundamentals, skill preparation, and science technology programs. A few of the many courses provided are Air Conditioning, Electricity, Commercial Art, Television News and Production and Practical Nursing. Students are transported to the Career Center for class and returned to their home school for the remainder of the school day. The Career Center offers the opportunity to students to explore job oriented fields and obtain practical skills to succeed in "the job world."

CLASS OF 1986

"What Is A Senior?"

The senior is a unique individual who enjoys spreading fear into new shiploads of freshmen, a person who can't say no to the word "party" and lives in fear of college applications. But am I trying to say that seniors have no sense of responsibility? Of course not!

You know better than that! It is the seniors' last year to prove themselves as scholars and independent individuals. Through the four years of high school they have learned to apply their talents toward becoming mature young adults. "Parting is such sorrow." But alas, "All good things must end."

The portrait of a senior locker.

Stephanie Ritz and Kelly Song sneak peeks at Chris Joulwan's love letter.

John Simko uses his lunch time to make sure his papers are stacked perfectly.

Carlton Baker and Eric Hilton, two good buddies

Stephanie Francis dreams about her rendezvous tonight.

Reflections: Remembrance of that September morning four years ago still strikes horror in the hearts of the seniors. Returning in September 1984, we were filled with a lot more confidence that we would not get pummeled by the senior-types. Our junior year brought thoughts of confidence control to our minds as we looked ahead to the next year. Then came , that glorious morning when we woke up and realized "Hey, we're bad!" The senior year seemed to instill some maturity in the students, who feel the need to begin to adjust to society's standards. No matter if it is pursuing a higher education or becoming part of the work force, we are the future. That observation has a way of terrifying our parents and administrators. But for the seniors themselves, these thoughts provide promise for the future and most look forward to a happy and prosperous life after high school. As we conclude this trip down memory lane, I would like to borrow some words from Bob Hope in saying "Wakefield, Thanks for the memories."

Christine Snyder and Steve Pagach take a breather.

Barrett East, ain't he cute?

Heather Gibson has that Warrior Spirit.

Terri Brennan, a sexy senior.

Senior Scott McWethy bites his lip.

Lorraine contemplates the complex life of organisms.

Around the Corner

Through the ages, individuals seem almost obsessed with the unknown. As June approaches seniors begin to explore the "Ultimate Unknown," their future. A world of vast opportunities lie at their feet ready to greet them, but then come the setbacks. "What if Harvard doesn't accept me?" "What if I don't have the skills it takes to get a good job?" It can be scary to examine what's around the corner especially finding out the meaning of being on your own. "Mom, what time is dinner going to be ready? Oh yeah, I forgot I moved out two months ago; I guess it is Burger King tonight." On the other hand, going around the corner can be a fascinating experience. You may be forced to perform at levels you never thought possible before and succeed. As a senior you have to remember that you're not alone; over three-hundred other students, including this writer, will be going around the corner with you.

Rick Moten ponders the outcome of tonight's game against Stuart.

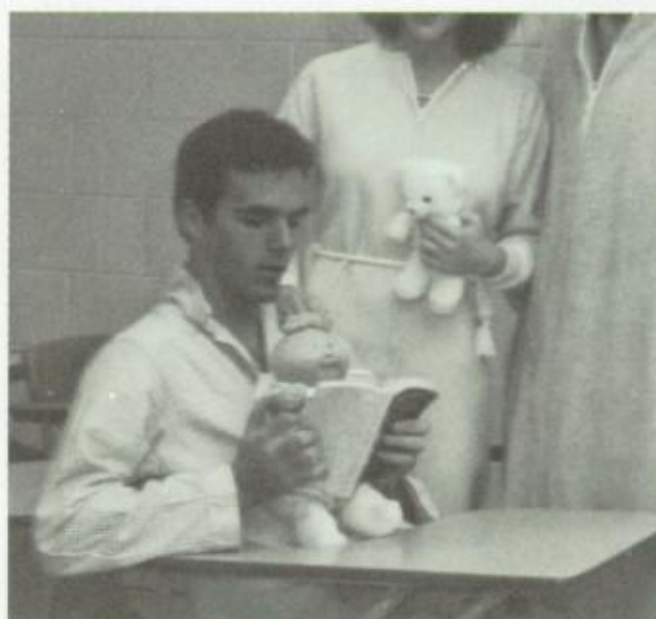

Senior Sponsor, Officer Brimm, is busy calling to check on available sites for this year's prom.

Chris Lee, Keith Lyles, Alycia Grigor, and Michele Grammatica live it up and celebrate their senior year.

Avis Blackwell

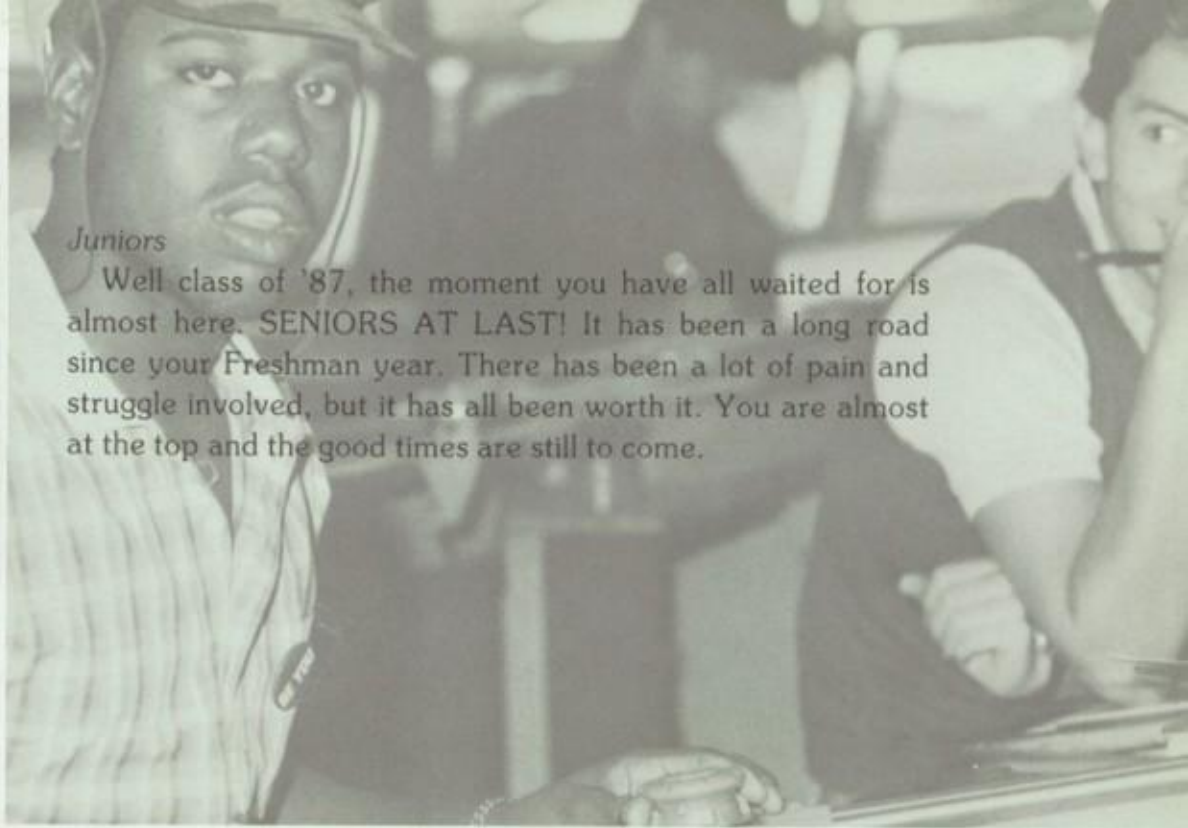

Rick Cutlip relives his past.

Linda Kissell says "Hey!"

Juniors — But not for long!!

Juniors

Well class of '87, the moment you have all waited for is almost here. SENIORS AT LAST! It has been a long road since your Freshman year. There has been a lot of pain and struggle involved, but it has all been worth it. You are almost at the top and the good times are still to come.

FASHION SHOW

The models leave the audience wanting more.

Can I actually hypnotize an audience? says Lynn Robson.

This year's Fashion Show proved to be very successful. A large group of students participated in displaying the latest fashion trends. Various area stores made the event possible by lending fashionable clothing, ranging from casual to formal wear.

All of the students who participated showed great poise in the limelight. From the minute the music started the action was non-stop. The music was selected specifically to accompany the mood.

The beat of the music, the glowing lights, and the transformed figures excited the audience. The sense of suspense never dimmed. The models looked truly glamorous and the crowd was transfixed by each and every one of them.

Money Matters:

The largest sum of money won by a single individual was 20 million in the N.Y. State Lottery on July 26, 1984 by Venero Pagano of the Bronx, NYC.

And what to do with all this money?

The highest auction price, a record of $10,023,200. was paid on July 5, 1984 at Sotheby's in London for a shimmering oil painting by J.M.W. Turner, "Seascape: Folkestone."

And you were just thinking of Gummy Bears!

Bryan,
Although you insult me on a regular basis, Although ~~you~~ you totally ignore me for your reading. ~~But~~ Although you never have anything nice to say to me, but still insist on speaking, I wish you the best of luck in everything you do. Good luck on graduating. (Ha Ha!) Be a Success!

When polled, Wakefield students chose "Back to the Future" as their favorite movie of 1985. "Gone With the Wind" is still America's all-time-favorite, according to the U.S.A. Today/P.M. Magazine poll.

According to a U.S.A. Today/P.M. Magazine poll, Bill Cosby is America's favorite comedian of the year, and The Cosby Show ranks first in national ratings. Not surprisingly, Cosby is the actor Americans would most like to meet. (and with a Doctorate in Education, yet!)

COMPLIMENTS OF A FRIEND GO WARRIORS

Bryan,

There isn't a single word in the English Vocabulary that can justly describe you or how you are. You are an understanding person and a very intelligent person. You are important to me in ways I cannot explain. You have given me advice that without making me feel as if I was such an idiot. I made a few mistakes but you were always my friend. You didn't condemn me, but understood what I did. I'm really going to miss you. We are definitely going to have to keep in touch over the summer and whenever we get back for a few days. I want your address for your down. I'm going to need a lot of support while I'm out in Iowa. I hope that you succeed in whatever you choose to do. I think you will.

THEY WERE ALL TEACHERS

The crew of the space shuttle Challenger: Ellison S. Onizuka — aerospace engineer, Christa McAuliffe — schoolteacher, Gregory B. Jarvis — electrical engineer, Judith A. Resnik — electrical engineer, Michael J. Smith — pilot, Francis R. Scobee — flight commander, and Ronald E. McNair — physicist.

"The crew seemed to have been chosen to represent Everybody's America. One was black, one was Jewish, one was Asian — American from a new state, Hawaii, and two were women.

"Her flight was to be the crossover, at last, from a quarter of a century in which space had been a frontier open only to pioneers who lived and were willing to die by the code of 'the right stuff' . . . to an era when space would belong to the entire citizenry, to Everyman."

— Tom Wolfe, Newsweek, February 10, 1986

"Christa made Concord proud. The people in our city saw in her the best that we have to offer.

"Many people have compared Christa's death with the assassination of John F. Kennedy, the inspiration of her youth. There are differences, but for the people of Concord — even for the nation as a whole — the comparison is valid. She stood for what was best in us at a time when we wanted to believe that the American spirit was reborn. That makes her death hard."

— Mike Pride, Newsweek

"Every day, in every corner of our land, teachers like Christa inspire students to dream of becoming artists and doctors and architects and, yes, astronauts. And teachers like Christa do even more: They give their students the courage to deal with the challenges of everyday life." — NEA President, Mary Futrell

"I think the students will say that an ordinary person is contributing to history, and if they can make that connection, they are going to get excited about history and about the future."

— Christa McAuliffe

"She was an adventurer who believed that risks were acceptable, even necessary, in life, and she was that way right from the start.

"In death, though, she accomplished her mission. She is the mother, wife and teacher who taught us something about courage, values and hope. It was what she wanted from life."

— Alan Richman

"Christa was standing in for those of us who share the dream of space exploration and the goal of reaching for the stars."

— Brenda Cloyd, VEA President

Christa "was the ultimate teacher in that she was willing to be a student herself, daring to go into dark places to explore new possibilities for the sole purpose of bringing her own experiences back to share with her students, to instill in the youngsters in her charge the confidence to adopt a challenge and face their own fears." — Katy Cawthon

"We will never forget them nor the last time we saw them this morning as they prepared for their journey and waved goodbye and 'slipped the surly bonds of earth to touch the face of God.' "

— President Reagan, paraphrasing John Gillespie Magee

ED says
Bye-
hello! So we're graduating and it's time party.
You're a sweet guy. Thanks for being there. Summers!
Just so stay cool. Keep in touch. Love

Bryan,
 what can I say? I wish dad its over. Home room has been interesting. I wish you all good luck in the future and see you at those high school reunions
 - Home room 221, yeah!

Bryan,
 Hey dude. What's up. It's been great knowing you through high school
 Have a nice summer
 Yours summer
 Davey

Good luck,
 Liz Frank

Bryan,
 I hardly know you but I'm glad I got the chance to meet you. You are a cool guy. Stay that way.
 Good luck with the girls over the summer. Good luck in the future.
 Love,
 Tracy Lee

Bryan, made well we've made it. Through 4 years of quelling agony. Mrs. Bent in Algebra to the Mr. Cogswell in drawing. I hope the best for you, and have a crazy wild summer. I know you will no doubt.
 Good luck,
 Rob Ambraust

Bryan,
 Hey you. We just made this best couple of things next year
 as nice guy! Too bad you leaving. I'm sad!
 Well, Good Luck
 next year and in the future! Stay Sweet and keep in touch.

Love's
 Sweet
 Summer

Bryan-

Well - what do I say to my husband? I think we have done some careful planning, & our children will grow up proud!!

- I'm glad this year is over! I have wanted so long for this day! Only - to go off & start 4 more years

Some where else! who knows why?

Anyway - Have a Great Summer & your

Good Luck in your Future. Love!

Bryan,
Too bad I didn't have Homeroom with you for our last year. You are a very special person to me and I know I will always remember you. Have a great summer!

Bryan,
Thanks for straightening out my stupid jokes. I never would have made it without you.
Maybe someone in College will do the same. Good Luck with you & Susan (yuk yuk!)
Have a nice summer and a great life
Chris

Bryan,
It's been great having someone in this class with a decent sense of humor. It's also nice having someone tall to hide behind. Well anyway we're graduating (?) and it's time to party, see you in Florida. Matt Hayat

Bryan,
Well it's been nice knowing you this year. I hope you have a super summer. Good luck in college & life.

finally made it, Bry! We've congratulations and good-luck in everything you do. Hopefully paths will cross again sometime to remind you, but don't have hard! (Right!) It's been real! study ~~the~~ class 80!

Graduating!
There

Brian! don't even know you but I have a cool summer!
anyway. Love ya!
Daddy

HI BRIAN!
GET THAT TOLERANCE UP FOR COLLEGE. I AM NOT AN ALCOHOLIC!!
PARTY HARD BUT DON'T GET CAUGHT. :D
WHAT ELSE SHOULD I WRITE? KEEP IN TUCH.

Brian,
Math class wasn't very fun this year but it was cool when we got to talk in between the lessons. Your witty comments from the back of the class ~~did~~ made the lectures more barable. Have an awesome ~~party~~ summer and I'll see you at the party. Later on!
Jim Palmer

Brian,
Gawx wouldn't have been the same what you (unfortunately)
I hope you have a good summer, you know, Sun. fun and lots of boogie! Of course, the later is more important than the former. I hope you appreciate me writing this because I don't really know what to say - Maybe I we got to know each other earlier this year, I could say more I am looking forward to your party. Stay Cool!
Michelle

Bryan.

Sociology was great fun this year!
Especially the marriage part! Whoa!
Even though we don't know each other too well I think you are a really sweet guy! Good luck in the future and have a great summer!

The young of the species are very numerous in the spring and summer months.
 They are found in the water and on the shore.

Bryan,

Have a good summer!
Worcesterfield and I will miss you! I hope college and life is good to you! I party!

Bryan,
I'm glad you were in Fitzkees and Goldstein's classes this year. I got to meet you & find out what everyone's said about you is true. You are a little nutty, loud & wild but could you imagine what those classes would have been like if you hadn't been there to liveen 'em up? I think you're a real sweet guy and I'm glad you are in my senior class. Best of luck in the future, if you ever make it through summer school.

Lotsa love,
Labsa!
